Brutal Battle Sees Chinese Mowed Down

Peak Overlooks Old Invasion Route South Into City Of Seoul

SEOUL, Oct. 8.—South Korean infantrymen fighting with bayonets Wednesday recaptured a vital shell-cratered peak overlooking the ancient invasion route to Seoul in a brutal battle that has raged since Monday night.

A front line officer said the Korean troops cut a Chinese battalion of 700 men down to 150 in recapturing the crest of White Horse Hill.

The peak, main objective of the biggest Communist attack in a year, has changed hands more than a dozen times as both sides threw tanks, artillery and men into the raging battle.

A few hours earlier the Chinese recklessly charged through an Allied artillery barrage and captured the crest. Then they hit the Korean defenders on the South slope but the Allies held fast.

Fighting was only slightly less bitter elsewhere along the front as the big Red offensive moved into its third day.

Allied warplanes rocketed overhead, plastering Red lines directly behind the front.

As the bitter warfare blazed with new vigor there was little sign at the truce talks in Panmunjon that an armistice would be reached soon.

In fact, the Allies Wednesday indefinitely postponed negotiations and bluntly told the Reds the next move was up to them.

THE POSTPONEMENT was taken until the Communists either accept an Allied proposal for setting the stalemate over prisoner of war exchange or make "a constructive proposal of their own."

What may prove to be the final break in the talks, started 15 months ago, resulted from a deadlock in the knotty problem of prisoner of war exchange, last unsolved item on the agenda.

LT. Gen. William K. Harrison, senior Allied negotiator, said the Allied team would return to the truce site any time the Reds were ready to accept one of three alternate Allied plans for settling the POW question or were willing to make "a constructive proposal" in writing.

Correspondents reported from the front that the crest of White Horse Mountain was a shell-shattered no man's land. It had changed hands 12 times in 42 hours of almost continuous fighting.

Iowa To Get Pancakes, HST And Sen. Taft

SHELANDOAH, Ia., Oct. 8.—It was Pancake Day in this town of 7,000 Wednesday, and there's a special feature this year: President Truman and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio riding in the same parade.

That's not all, either. The two political heavyweights will deliver speeches from the same platform during the afternoon, but 2 1/2 hours apart.

And, in keeping with tradition at the annual Harvest Festival popularly known as "Pancake Day," there'll be free pancakes for everyone.

General Chairman Howard Brannen estimated that a crowd of 50,000 would be on hand.

"Why, the pancakes alone will bring out 20,000," he said.

President Truman will ride at the head of the parade, Senator Taft in the middle.

After the parade and a visit to the National Guard Armory for free pancakes, Truman will deliver his address at the high school football field. Taft is expected to listen to the speech over the radio at the Elks Club so he can make a rebuttal in his address.

New Czech Envoy To Be Selected

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Truman is expected soon to name a new envoy to Communist Czechoslovakia to succeed Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs.

Officials expect the post will go to George Wadsworth, former ambassador to Turkey. Briggs returned recently from Prague and is believed slated for transfer to South Korea as ambassador.

JON MORROW LINDBERGH, one of eight scientists recently engaged in oceanographic surveys, displays a glass cylinder taken from the sea floor as he arrives at Hoboken, N. J. Jon, who is the son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, said the expedition came upon a hitherto unknown Atlantic canyon that stretches for 800 miles of sea bottom somewhere between Bermuda and the Azores.

Nixon Warns Ohioans Trumanites Endanger U.S., Must Be Evicted

LIMA, Oct. 8.—Sen. Richard M. Nixon warned Wednesday this nation is in danger, but predicted many Democrats will join Republicans at the polls to "throw the Trumanites out of Washington."

"They will put loyalty to country above loyalty to party," the GOP vice presidential candidate predicted in whistle stop talks in Lima and Wapakoneta at the start of his second day's swing through politically doubtful Ohio.

Police estimated a crowd of 1,500 turned out for the 8:30 a. m. talk in Lima and 2,300 in Wapakoneta at 9:25. The talks were made from the rear platform of Nixon's special campaign train.

Nixon said he based his prediction on the "biggest crowd in American political history" he reported were turning out for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP presidential nominee, now on a whistlestop tour of the West.

"REPUBLICANS and also Democrats will vote by the millions to throw the Truman Democrats—there's a difference—out of Washington," Nixon said and the crowd cheered.

Rolling south from Wapakoneta, Nixon will give talks in Sidney, Bellefontaine, Lancaster, Logan and Athens.

Only the election of Eisenhower will save the nation, Nixon insisted.

He said Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson have taken over the two top spots in the Democratic election campaign. He relegated the Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson

City Charter--Step By Step

Under the charter, the city manager is charged with the responsibility of conducting the city government in a business-like manner. It is his duty to supervise the administration of the affairs of the city and to see that its ordinances and the laws of the state are enforced.

He is to keep the council advised of the financial condition and future needs of the city, and to make recommendations for business-like conduct of its government.

He is also responsible for the efficient operation of the police and fire departments, and the maintenance and improvement of the public works.

Section 68 of the charter makes the city manager responsible for Ted Lewis Park, and for any other recreational facilities of the city. Under the present plan of city government, the park is operated by a board of park commissioners, who are appointed by the mayor. The funds for operation come from the city and gifts.

UNDER SECTION 69 of the charter, depending upon action of council, the city manager may have responsibility for operation of the utilities, which at present are operated by the utilities board and a manager.

The board consists of three members serving six year terms each, appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the council. Under the charter, the council has power to continue the board and manager or, if it deems it advisable, to place them under the city manager.

Truman, Ike Continue Exchanging Bitter Jabs During Campaign Tours

General's Slam-Bang Attack Carried Deep Into California

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 8.—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower drove his slam-bang attack against the administration and President Truman to California Wednesday, hoping to win its 32 electoral votes.

There were indications that he will continue to personally fight back at criticisms thrown at him by Truman.

He struck back Tuesday night at Democratic accusations that he's now trying to disclaim responsibility for foreign policies that he helped to decide. Truman has said Eisenhower periled the United States by not sizing up the Russian threat after the war.

Eisenhower answered that in Eugene, Ore., when he said:

"As you know, ladies and gentlemen, through this region another (Truman's) campaign train preceded mine some time back. From its back platform, many red hot salvos were loosed at me."

"NOW ONE OF the charges made was that in 1945 I expressed the hope and belief that Russia wanted to establish a workable friendship with us. I was testifying for increased Army strength. I proposed that we hope for the best and be prepared for the worst."

"Now, I think if we had not pursued such a policy at that time, today in view of the chaos in which the world exists, we would be terribly blaming ourselves for not having done our best. Yet from the back platform of a campaign train

Local Lake Project One Of Four Planned For Completion By State

The Ohio Wildlife Council Tuesday announced it plans to go ahead with the completion of the proposed Pickaway County Memorial Lake and Park in Devil's Backbone.

The local project, known also as the Hargus Creek dam, was one of four projects which the Council said it plans to complete.

Plans and specifications for the local dam and park area are expected to be completed by Oct. 15, according to A. W. Marion, director of the department of natural resources.

Other dams included in the announcement were: Hocking County Lake; plans to be ready for bid-letting within 30 days. The dam was cut to prevent damage downstream.

Knox County Lake; plans and specifications to be ready by Oct. 15. It was cut in 1950 and has been redesigned.

Lewis Hasn't Said Yet--But

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—(P)—John L. Lewis still hasn't said in so many words whom he favors for the nation's next President but he declared here Tuesday he didn't see how anyone could vote for a man "whom Taft may lead around by the collar."

The reference to Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio was taken to mean by 3,000 United Mine Workers delegates that Lewis, their long-time president, does not favor the candidacy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, for whom Taft is campaigning.

President Quotes General's Anti-Military Man Stand

OMAHA, Oct. 8.—(P)—President Truman, fresh and peppery despite the grind, pushed his "give 'em hell" campaign into the Midwestern farm belt Wednesday after his bitterest attack on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Reporters thought Truman was as grim as they'd ever seen him in his assault on Eisenhower. Truman is making a coast-to-coast tour in behalf of Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Tuesday night in Denver, Truman said that his argument that it would be a mistake "to send a professional military man to the White House" was supported by Eisenhower's own language of four years ago.

He quoted the general as saying in 1948, in rejecting suggestions of a nomination, that nothing at that time qualified for political life a man who has "spent his adult years in the military forces."

And, added the President, "that statement is as true today as it was then."

Firemen Ask 2-Way Radio On Rural Runs

Plans were under way Wednesday to install a two-way radio in Circleville fire department's township truck to aid cooperation with other emergency units in the area.

The Rural Township Fire Association in its latest meeting voted to solicit contributions for this purpose from residents of the area who would be directly benefited.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said: "All the other cities around here and many of the smaller communities already have the two-way radios. We're behind everybody else, and the equipment can be very valuable when it comes to teamwork with other fire departments and the sheriff's department."

THE ASSOCIATION covers about nine Pickaway County townships, Wise said. "Some fire departments raise funds like this by dances, shows and the like," he added, "but we feel the farmers will readily see the advantages of the plan and help us put it across."

Announcement of the drive for contributions was released in connection with the nation's current observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Sheriff's Farm Hides Moonshine

HODGENVILLE, Ky., Oct. 8.—(P)—Somebody played a dirty trick on Wayne County Sheriff Joe Burnett. A 220-gallon moonshine still was set up on the sheriff's farm, located about 10 miles northeast of here. The sheriff and his tenant, Earl West, notified federal officers here that the still, one of the largest ever discovered in Larue County, of which Hodgenville is the county seat, had been found in a heavily wooded ravine in a remote section of the farm.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 8.—(P)—Paul F. Fehr, manager of the Cincinnati Produce Growers' Association, estimates a killing frost here Tuesday caused a $25,000 loss to vegetable growers in this area.

Council Expected To Agree On Gas Rate Hike Request

City council Tuesday night indicated it will approve an ordinance which would increase domestic and commercial rates charged here by Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

Speaking for the utility, Frank W. Phillips, district manager from Athens, told council the firm's financial position has been seriously "embarrassed" by rising costs while rates here, under existing ordinance, are set until 1954.

The company is asking for repeal of the current ordinance and passage of a new one to set a rate scale over a five-year period. "And even then, I'm sorry to say," Phillips explained, "we can't promise just what the future will bring. We hope the proposed new scale will be sufficient to see us through the years immediately ahead, but we can't see into the future. We don't believe anybody can."

THE ORDINANCE providing for the rate adjustment was held to first reading, but councilmen indicated it was intended as little more than a formality and that final passage will probably come at the next regular session.

Phillips pointed out the proposed increase, spread over a five-year period in anticipation of continued higher prices asked by suppliers, would not affect the small consumers at all until the fifth year.

It was estimated the new scale would boost the bills of gas heating customers from $10 to $15 a year, with those of "base load"

Many Injured As Engine Hits Station Crowd

English Accident Comes In Morning Rush Of Commuters

HARROW, England, Oct. 8.—(P)—Two collisions involving three trains killed at least 82 persons here Wednesday and piled wooden coaches 50 feet high in a mass of wreckage. Some of the dead were in the coaches; others were mowed down as they waited on a station platform.

Officials of the government-operated railways said the death toll may top 120. More than 130 persons were treated at hospitals and hundreds received first aid.

Commuters standing on the Harrow platform were mowed down as if by a giant scythe when the third train's locomotive left the rails and plowed into two trains already wrecked.

The death toll of 81 was announced almost eight hours after the three-way collision. At that time three coaches under the main bulk of the wreckage were still to be reached by rescue workers. The crash piled coach on coach in a 50-foot heap of wreckage.

THE COLLISION involved two expresses and a commuter train. Many of the victims had been waiting at the station of this Middlesex village, 10 miles from London.

People standing on the platform were cut down as a locomotive of the London-Manchester express screeched from the tracks and sheared through the waiting crowd. Within minutes this corner of Harrow looked like a burned-out silhouette of wartime London.

A suburban train standing in the station first was hit from behind by an express bound for London from Scotland.

Then, as the wreckage of this collision splattered the area, the London-Manchester express roared up from behind and plowed into the piled up coaches.

Besides the dead accounted for by police, 70 persons were in hospitals and 41 persons had been sent home after treatment.

It was Britain's worst train wreck in 37 years. A dozen coaches were in a pile of wreckage in the heart of the Harrow station.

The crash occurred only three miles from headquarters of the U. S. Eighth Air Force at South Ruislip. Few airmen living there normally use the trains involved. No reports had been received that any of them were among the dead or injured.

AN AMERICAN passport was found in a wrecked car, but police declined to give the owner's name pending a check of the dead and injured.

The overhead bridge connecting the northbound and southbound station platforms was ripped down on the wreckage.

customers (cooking and refrigeration) rising approximately half that amount on the average.

Phillips stressed the current agreement with council, passed as an ordinance in 1946 and intended to hold for eight years barring emergency requests for either increase or decrease, was based "on the best possible advice we had available at that time."

Costs of operation and taxes, however, have climbed far beyond estimates, he said. He mentioned in this connection a steady upward trend in labor costs and unexpected expenses entailed in the company's recent expansion of its underground storage system.

MARION SAID Pater Lake Dam in Butler County has been abandoned because the available lake area was inadequate to handle the water in its watershed area. He said the wildlife council hopes to build another lake somewhere east of Hamilton.

Marion said the decision to go ahead with rebuilding at Hocking, Hargus Creek and Knox County was reached Tuesday at a joint meeting of the Natural Resources Department and the Wildlife Council.

The legislature has appropriated $150,000 to rebuild the Hocking County Lake, but the ultimate cost will be more than twice that, Marion estimated.

The difference will be made up by the wildlife council out of its hunting and fishing license fund. All the dams were built originally by the old Division of Wildlife and Conservation and were destroyed or kept inactive by the Department of Natural Resources soon after it came into being.

In its action Tuesday, the wildlife council did not release the money for the reconstruction projects, because the amounts required will not be known until the Department of Public Works completes the plans and furnishes estimates.

HE DECLARED that it would be "a great mistake to send a professional military man to the White House."

Eisenhower removed himself from presidential consideration in 1948 in a letter to a New Hampshire booster, Leonard V. Finder, publisher of the Manchester Evening Leader.

"It is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained when life-long professional soldiers, in the absence of some obvious and overriding reason, abstain from seeking high political office."

"Nothing in the international or domestic situation especially qualifies for the most important office in the world a man whose adult years have been spent in the country's military forces. At least this is true in my case."

The President accused Eisenhower of betraying life-long principles and his best friends by supporting what he called such "moral pigmies" as Republican Sens. Joseph

Charter Rivals To Give Talks

Leading spokesmen for both sides of the city charter controversy are to address a meeting of Circleville Parent-Teacher Association Thursday night.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Mayor Ed Amey will speak for those opposed to the charter proposal. Attorney Emmitt Crist will speak in behalf of the city manager plan. The public has been invited.

Debate between the two speakers is not scheduled, but a question and answer period will be held for the audience after each of the speakers gives his views.

ALL MEMBERS of the PTA were urged to bring interested friends.

PTA leaders stressed the meeting is open to all those who may not belong to the organization.

Chet Wertman Takes Big Bass

Chester Wertman Jr. of East Franklin street Wednesday displayed one of the top catches of the current fishing season.

He was exhibiting the head from a 4-1/2 pound smallmouth bass, which he caught Tuesday evening along Big Darby Creek.

Wertman said he had been hunting along Darby Creek Tuesday evening when he decided to try his luck at fishing. He said he rigged up a fly rod with a chub minnow to take the prize luncheon.

The bass was one of the largest smallmouths caught around here for some years.

$3,014 Business Listed By Mayor

Amount of business handled by the office of Mayor Ed Amey during September totaled $3,014.80.

Collections — fines, $438.15; licenses, $8; traffic, $213; and $10, collection on bad checks.

Distribution — state, $438.15; county, $1,247.70; mayor, $426.40; chief, $221.40; and sheriff's department, $12.

Local Driver Held For Grand Jury

Woodrow Howard, 22, of 210 West Huston street, was bound to Pickaway County grand jury by the court of Magistrate Oscar Root Tuesday on an accusation of driving when intoxicated. Bond was set at $200.

The accusation resulted from an accident last Sept. 1 on State Route 56 in Salt Creek Township. Howard has been under hospital treatment since that time.

Orville Ray Convolser of Tarlton was killed in the accident. Arrest was by Deputy Sheriff Jim Diltz.

More About Gas Rate Hike Request

Phillips explained, makes possible adequate supplies through the heavy demand of Wintertime. Designed to help the local region in this respect, Ohio Fuel Gas recently expanded its storage facilities near Laurelville.

PHILLIPS MADE clear that despite the costs of the firm's modernization and expansion program, need for the higher rates here arises chiefly because of increased rates demanded by Ohio Fuel Gas suppliers. The firm gets 90 percent of its supply from Texas.

Seeking some method to realize increased revenue, the district manager said, the utility studied new increases for its industrial and wholesale customers but found a higher domestic and commercial scale the only way out of its "grave financial problems."

As one of several factors casting uncertainty upon the future, even with the proposed hike, Phillips emphasized the firm will "soon have to face the competitive wage scales of the (Pike County) atomic energy plant."

"We've had a lot of problems in Circleville," he went on, "and we've spent a lot of money here—and we're going to spend a lot more to give you the service we know you want to have."

"You can force us (under existing ordinance) to continue giving you low cost gas for two more years. We want, however, to come to you as a firm in trouble and asking for your help at this time. We've been forced to do the same thing in many other communities. We are not thinking of big profit margins. We are thinking now of ways to insure that we'll stay solvent."

HE CALLED attention to comparative costs of fuel oil and coal heating as compared to gas, and in this regard explained the firm feels the major portion of the increase in rates should be borne by the heating customers.

Phillips commented that Ohio Fuel Gas could, under regulations, appeal for the increase to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission, but added:

"We of course are not going to do that. We have built up in Circleville over a period of many years a splendid record in public relations, and rest assured we're not going to risk losing it now."

Phillips several times praised the work here of Dan McClain, local manager who was recently promoted to another job in Parma.

In response to a query from Councilman George Crites, Phillips said the firm did not wish to press for immediate passage of the new rate scale but hoped it could be approved at council's next meeting under suspension of the rules.

There appeared to be no opposition to the company's request.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Non de claims will be used if requested.

Editor, The Herald:

I am sending on an article taken from the local base newspaper, The Photogram, dated Friday, Oct. 3.

As the soldiers involved are members of this unit, I have asked questions, and checked their own stories and have formed the opinion that the true facts are presented in the 6th and 7th paragraphs of the clipping.

I am forwarding this to you as a small effort on my part to help bring home to the people of my home town, Circleville, an actual example of Communism at work, that they may be more on guard for it.

Here is hoping that maybe a few people will become more aware of the growing threat of Communism.

THE GI MENACE

The following article was translated from the Communist publication La Voix de l'Est, dated September 13th. The grossly exaggerated views expressed herein would seem rather humorous were they not so damaging to our purpose here, were they not so detrimental to the ultimate success of the NATO organization. The Communist paper has taken a trivial incident which involved U.S. military personnel in Pont-a-Mousson, and built around it a tissue of lies and propaganda aimed at you.

"August 24th—An American soldier attacked a young man of Pont-a-Mousson, beating him with his fists. Several Frenchmen, who were nearby, intervened and saved the young man from the assault. The youth started walking towards his home.

"A few minutes later the call, 'Help, help!' was heard. Seven Americans were assaulting the youth. When a few dozen French civilians rushed from the Cafe De La Gare to answer the call the American gangsters got into a black French automobile, and tried to run their victim up against the bridge. They then drove off toward Nancy, narrowly missing a French policeman.

"More and more the American occupants incite incidents of mauling and insulting French people. Deep discontent reigns in the population of Pont-a-Mousson, and the people wish the Americans would go back home to America as soon as possible.

"U.S. GO HOME is written on our walls and also in the hearts of the people of Lorraine, who will unite themselves in a national organization to face this growing menace; and save France for the French."

We find upon investigation of this incident, a decided change in fact and situation. The 18 year old youth referred to in this article was estimated to be from eight to ten years older than stated. Eye witnesses also report that the "youth" incited the incident by kicking the American in the groin. This American defended himself as was his right. The youth fled and was pursued by the Military Police and the Gendarmes.

The "Gangsters" used a car to overtake the youth. There were no policemen on the scene. Yet, as they have shown us, each incident, no matter how trivial and no matter who is at fault, will be used against us.

A glance at the third paragraph of the article in question tells us how quick and eager the Communists are to exaggerate, to generalize to their own ends. It is obvious that through contorted bits of facts and exaggerated truths, through reference to GI "gangsters" or Chorwon Valley and the gateway to the south. The peaks have been the main target of the Reds.

Battered remnants of a Red battalion were dug in on one slope. South Koreans were just off the peak on the other side. Big guns of both sides pounded the crest ceaselessly.

The hard-fighting South Koreans fell back from the ridge line shortly after noon. Chinese reached the top, and then were driven off.

The Chinese assault force that smashed up White Horse today was powered by a wedge of 300 men who charged with bayonets bared. Another 700 Chinese were right behind. At the crest the opposing side closed in hand-to-hand fighting with grenades, bayonets, gun butts and fists.

Vandals in Pickaway County have begun their Halloween destruction early this year.

In the last few days, local authorities have been called out to investigate at least three separate acts of vandalism.

Thomas Hockman of near Laurelville was one of the first victims. A 1,000-bale rick of straw on a Hockman farm was torn down, apparently by older youths.

Lawmen were called to Five Points, where shocks of fodder containing corn were burned.

Fodder shocks on the Kelly Hinton Farm on Kingston Route 1 were torn apart, although not set afire.

AND THE most recent destruction was reported by Farmers' Exchange in Orient, where youngsters ripped open 25 bags of seed wheat and feed with knives.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff Wednesday warned parents to control their youngsters.

"I don't believe the parents know just how much destruction their youngsters can do," he said.

Vandals Begin Pranks Early This Year

Circleville Lions club met Tuesday night and completed plans for its Pumpkin Show booth, to be located on the west side of Court street just north of Main street.

Preliminary work by club members was scheduled for next Tuesday night.

Arrangements were also discussed for a box social to be held in the club rooms, Oct. 28.

It is fortunate that there are many Frenchmen who see through the obvious web of Red treacheries. Yet it is foolish to expose your efforts to attack, when you might have "shut your mouth, put your hat on your head, and left."

City Solicitor Told To Fight Damage Suit

City Solicitor George Gerhardt was authorized by council at the Tuesday night meeting to proceed with plans for the city's defense in a two-part suit asking $6,398.69 in damages. Gerhardt was told to prepare an ordinance to hire assisting counsel.

Acris Campbell of 930 South Washington street through his attorney, Kenneth Robbins, filed suit for his 12-year old daughter, Barbara Mae, and himself.

The plaintiff claims his daughter suffered permanent injury to her left hand when she tripped and fell on East High street on the night of Oct. 20, 1951. A glass bottle of coffee the girl was carrying at the time was broken, causing severe laceration of the hand, the plaintiff said.

The father asks $1,398.69 for loss of services and for $5,000 in behalf of his daughter.

Trial of the case has been set for Nov. 6 in Pickaway County common pleas court.

Adlai Raps McCarthy, Hurls New Challenge At Eisenhower

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson carried his presidential campaign into the Wisconsin balliwick of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy Wednesday with the assertion that the "voice of the accuser" must not still all others in the land.

The Democratic nominee geared up a fresh onslaught on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Republican record on domestic and foreign policies.

Stevenson was preparing to sail into Eisenhower as representing only a mouthpiece for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in a major address in Milwaukee Wednesday night.

He picked McCarthy, without naming the senator in the advance text handed to newsmen, as the object for attack in a speech prepared for a University of Wisconsin Field House audience.

Declaring that "the pillorying of the innocent has caused the wise to stammer and the timid to retreat," the Illinois governor left no doubt he was aiming at McCarthy when he asserted:

"I HOPE THE time will never come in America when charges are taken as the equivalent of facts, when suspicions are confused with certainties and when the voice of the accuser stills every other voice in the land."

Stevenson has chided Eisenhower for supporting McCarthy's bid for reelection, despite the Wisconsin senator's attack on the patriotism of Gen. George C. Marshall, the Republican nominee's old friend.

Eisenhower has said that while he will support all of the Republican nominees for Congress, including McCarthy, he does not condone "besmirching the reputation of any innocent man or condemning by loose association."

Democrats contend McCarthy has done just that. And Stevenson told an enthusiastic, overflow audience in Detroit's 4,500-seat

Declaring that "the pillorying of the innocent has caused the wise to stammer and the timid to retreat," the Illinois governor left no doubt he was aiming at McCarthy when he asserted:

"I HOPE THE time will never come in America when charges are taken as the equivalent of facts, when suspicions are confused with certainties and when the voice of the accuser stills every other voice in the land."

Stevenson has chided Eisenhower for supporting McCarthy's bid for reelection, despite the Wisconsin senator's attack on the patriotism of Gen. George C. Marshall, the Republican nominee's old friend.

Eisenhower has said that while he will support all of the Republican nominees for Congress, including McCarthy, he does not condone "besmirching the reputation of any innocent man or condemning by loose association."

Democrats contend McCarthy has done just that. And Stevenson told an enthusiastic, overflow audience in Detroit's 4,500-seat

Charter Rivals To Give Talks

Leading spokesmen for both sides of the city charter controversy are to address a meeting of the Cincinnati Parent-Teacher Association Thursday night.

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Mayor Ed Amey will speak for those opposed to the charter proposal. Attorney Emmitt Crist will speak in behalf of the city manager plan. The public has been invited.

Debate between the two speakers is not scheduled, but a question and answer period will be held for the audience after each of the speakers gives his views.

ALL MEMBERS of the PTA were urged to bring interested friends.

PTA leaders stressed the meeting is open to all those who may not belong to the organization.

Chet Wertman Takes Big Bass

Chester Wertman Jr. of East Franklin street Wednesday displayed one of the top catches of the current fishing season.

He was exhibiting the head from a 4-1/2 pound smallmouth bass, which he caught Tuesday evening along Big Darby Creek.

Wertman said he had been hunting along Darby Creek Tuesday evening when he decided to try his luck at fishing. He said he rigged up a fly rod with a chub minnow to take the prize luncheon.

The bass was one of the largest smallmouths caught around here for some years.

More About Gas Rate Hike Request

Phillips explained, makes possible adequate supplies through the heavy demand of Wintertime. Designed to help the local region in this respect, Ohio Fuel Gas recently expanded its storage facilities near Laurelville.

PHILLIPS MADE clear that despite the costs of the firm's modernization and expansion program, need for the higher rates here arises chiefly because of increased rates demanded by Ohio Fuel Gas suppliers. The firm gets 90 percent of its supply from Texas.

Seeking some method to realize increased revenue, the district manager said, the utility studied new increases for its industrial and wholesale customers but found a higher domestic and commercial scale the only way out of its "grave financial problems."

"As one of several factors casting uncertainty upon the future, even with the proposed hike, Phillips emphasized the firm will 'soon have to face the competitive wage scales of the (Pike County) atomic energy plant.'"

"We've had a lot of problems in Circleville," he went on, "and we've spent a lot of money here—and we're going to spend a lot more to give you the service we know you want to have."

"You can force us (under existing ordinance) to continue giving you low cost gas for two more years. We want, however, to come to you as a firm in trouble and asking for your help at this time. We've been forced to do the same thing in many other communities. 'We are not thinking of big profit margins. We are thinking now of ways to insure that we'll stay solvent.'"

HE CALLED attention to comparative costs of fuel oil and coal heating as compared to gas, and in this regard explained the firm feels the major portion of the increase in rates should be borne by the heating customers.

Phillips commented that Ohio Fuel Gas could, under regulations, appeal for the increase to the Ohio Public Utilities Commission, but added:

"We of course are not going to do that. We have built up in Circleville over a period of many years a splendid record in public relations, and rest assured we're not going to risk losing it now."

Phillips several times praised the work here of Dan McClain, local manager who was recently promoted to another job in Parma.

In response to a query from Councilman George Crites, Phillips said the firm did not wish to press for immediate passage of the new rate scale but hoped it could be approved at council's next meeting under suspension of the rules.

There appeared to be no opposition to the company's request.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. No abuse will be used if requested.

Editor, The Herald:

I am sending on an article taken from the local base newspaper, The Photogram, dated Friday, Oct. 3.

As the soldiers involved are members of this unit, I have asked questions, and checked their own stories and have formed the opinion that the true facts are presented in the 6th and 7th paragraphs of the clipping.

I am forwarding this to you as a small effort on my part to help bring about to the people of my home town, Circleville, an actual example of Communism at work, that they may be more on guard for it.

Here is hoping that maybe a few people will become more aware of the growing threat of Communism.

A-2c Richard L. Blaney
Hq. 10th A.B. Gp.
APO 83 c-o PM
New York, N. Y.
THE GI MENACE

The following article was translated from the Communist publication La Voix de l'Est, dated September 13th. The grossly exaggerated views expressed herein would seem rather humorous were they not so damaging to our purpose here, were they not so detrimental to the ultimate success of the NATO organization. The Communist paper has taken a trivial incident which involved U.S. military personnel in Pont-A-Mousson, and built around it a tissue of lies and propaganda aimed at you.

"August 24th—An American soldier attacked a young man of Pont-A-Mousson, beating him with his fists. Several Frenchmen, who were nearby, intervened and saved the young man from the assault. The youth started walking towards his home.

"A few minutes later the call, 'Help, help!' was heard. Seven Americans were assaulting the youth. When a few dozen French civilians rushed from the Cafe De La Gare to answer the call, the American gangsters got into a black French automobile, and tried to run their victim up against the bridge. They then drove off toward Nancy, narrowly missing a French policeman.

"More and more the American occupants incite incidents of mauling and insulting French people. Deep discontent reigns in the population of Pont-A-Mousson, and the people wish the Americans would go back home to America as soon as possible.

"U.S. GO HOME is written on our walls and also in the hearts of the people of Lorraine, who will unite themselves in a national organization to face this growing menace; and save France for the French."

We find upon investigation of this incident, a decided change in fact and situation. The 18 year old youth referred to in this article was estimated to be from eight to ten years older than stated. Eye witnesses also report that the "youth" incited the incident by kicking the American in the groin. This American defended himself as was his right. The youth fled and was pursued by other Americans to hold him for the Military Police and the Gendarmes.

The "Gangsters" used a car to overtake the youth. There were no policemen on the scene. Yet, as they have shown us, each incident, no matter how trivial and no matter who is at fault, will be used against us.

A glance at the third paragraph of the article in question tells us how quick and eager the Communists are to exaggerate, to generalize to their own ends. It is obvious that through contorted bits of facts and exaggerated truths, through reference to GI "gangsters" or Chorwon Valley and the gateway to the south. The peaks have been the main target of the Reds.

Battered remnants of a Red battalion were dug in on one slope. South Koreans were just off the peak on the other side. Big guns of both sides pounded the crest ceaselessly.

The hard-fighting South Koreans fell back from the ridge line shortly after noon. Chinese reached the top, and then were driven off.

The Chinese assault force that smashed up White Horse tower was powered by a wedge of 300 men who charged with bayonets bared. Another 700 Chinese were right behind. At the crest the opposing side closed in hand-to-hand fighting with grenades, bayonets, gun butts and fists.

Vandals Begin Pranks Early This Year

Vandals in Pickaway County have begun their Halloween destruction early this year.

In the last few days, local authorities have been called out to investigate at least three separate acts of vandalism.

Thomas Hockman of near Laurelville was one of the first victims. A 1,000-bale rick of straw on the Hockman farm was torn down, apparently by older youths.

Lawmen were called to Five Points, where shocks of fodder containing corn were burned.

Fodder shocks on the Kelly Hinton Farm on Kingston Route 1 were torn apart, although not set afire.

AND THE most recent destruction was reported by Farmers' Exchange in Orient, where youngsters ripped open 25 bags of seed wheat and feed with knives.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff Wednesday warned parents to control their youngsters.

"I don't believe the parents know just how much destruction their youngsters can do," he said.

Lions Club Slates Work For Show

Circleville Lions Club met Tuesday night and completed plans for its Pumpkin Show booth, to be located on the west side of Court street just north of Main street.

Preliminary work by club members was scheduled for next Tuesday night.

Arrangements were also discussed for a box social to be held in the club rooms Oct. 28.

"Hoodlums" the Red propaganda machine attempts to stamp popular disapproval on our presence here.

Save France for the French is the Communist promise of the Frenchmen's deliverance from the impositions of the American "invasion." And the Communist promise of a free France for Frenchmen is in accordance with the inherent freedoms that are enjoyed by many people under Communist domination, the freedoms enjoyed by the peoples of Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland, East Germany, China, North Korea and Russia.

It is fortunate that there are many Frenchmen who see through the obvious web of Red treacheries. Yet it is foolish to expose your efforts to attack, when you might have "shut your mouth, put your hat on your head, and left."

Adlai Raps McCarthy, Hurls New Challenge At Eisenhower

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8.—(P)—Adlai E. Stevenson carried his presidential campaign into the Wisconsin balliwick of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy Wednesday with the assertion that the "voice of the accuser" must not still all others in the land.

The Democratic nominee geared up a fresh onslaught on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Republican record on domestic and foreign policies.

Stevenson was preparing to sail into Eisenhower as representing only a mouthpiece for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in a major address in Milwaukee Wednesday night.

He picked McCarthy, without naming the senator in the advance text handed to newsmen, as the object for attack in a speech prepared for a University of Wisconsin Field House audience.

Declaring that "the pillorying of the innocent has caused the wise to stammer and the timid to retreat," the Illinois governor left no doubt he was aiming at McCarthy when he asserted:

"I HOPE THE time will never come in America when charges are taken as the equivalent of facts, when suspicions are confused with certainties and when the voice of the accuser stills every other voice in the land."

Stevenson has chided Eisenhower for supporting McCarthy's bid for reelection, despite the Wisconsin senator's attack on the patriotism of Gen. George C. Marshall, the Republican nominee's old friend.

Eisenhower has said that while he will support all of the Republican nominees for Congress, including McCarthy, he does not condone "besmirching the reputation of any innocent man or condemning by loose association."

Democrats contend McCarthy has done just that. And Stevenson told an enthusiastic, overflowing audience in Detroit's 4,500-seat

Masonic Temple Tuesday night that McCarthy had failed to turn up a single Communist with "wild and reckless" charges.

"Catching real Communist agents, like killing poisonous snakes or tigers, is not a job for amateurs or children, especially noisy ones," he said. "It is a job for professionals who know their business and their adversaries."

In an oblique reference what he regards as GOP campaign tactics, he declared:

"Some, perhaps, find it politically profitable to cultivate the vineyards of anxiety. I would warn them lest they reap the grapes of wrath."

"I BELIEVE that our people have begun to tire of hearing how weak they are, how feeble is their faith, how urgent it is to limit and surrender their freedom. I would say: Enough of this weakness and cowardice."

In his Detroit speech, Stevenson challenged Eisenhower to break what he called the Republican candidate's "thunderous silence" on how he would solve the Communist infiltration problem.

"I think we are entitled to ask: Is the Republican candidate seriously interested in trying to root out Communists out of the government or is he only interested in scaring the American people to get the Old Guard in," he said.

from all main communities in Mid-dlesex County and from Northwest London. All available ambulances were called out and moving vans and other trucks were pressed into service to help carry the injured to hospitals.

Volunteer rescue workers claved at the wreckage with their bare hands to remove victims.

Bodies of the dead were lined up alongside the tracks. One passenger likened the scene to that of a wartime air raid. Clouds of burning steam rolled through the battered coaches, adding to the panic of passengers trying to grope their way to safety.

A flying chunk of debris smashed the station clock, fixing the exact time of the crash—8:19 a. m.

Council Peeved At Speeders, Pavements, Dust And Smoke

Council members Tuesday took action to check speeders, crack down on property owners for pavement repairs and find some way to stop "too much dust and smoke" from local plants.

Sentiment for action on all three of those fronts arose in the course of the meeting from a variety of individual complaints.

Touching off the discussion on speeding motorists were complaints from a delegation led by Mrs. Arnold Moats. The group told council that school children crossing South Court street near Dunmore Road were endangered by reckless motorists.

Mrs. Moats said drivers use that stretch as a "speedway" and invited the city leaders to "come down and see for yourselves." She suggested a light be placed to operate during school hours.

COUNCILMAN Boyd Horn joined in criticism of the "way they speed through there" and later turned the discussion to school safety street markings in the North End.

This in turn led several council members to point out the safety markings in some sections are partly obscured by trees. The operation of different traffic lights in the city also became a topic and the matter was finally referred to the safety committee.

At one stage of the talk, after Horn had emphasized the need for "speeder markings" in the south end of the city, Councilman Harold Clifton drew a general laugh by asking:

"Do you mean like Burma Shave signs?"

Horn also called for action against trucks so overloaded with gravel that large pieces fall to the street. Clifton added steps should be taken against trucks which litter some sections of the city with straw.

Councilman John Robinson suddenly turned the chorus of complaint against chaff blowing over city areas from local mills, and Councilman George Critt added that excessive smoke in the district should also get official attention.

"With a little bit of engineering study," Critt said, "surely something can be done to cut down the smoke and dust."

AT THIS stage, Council President Ben Gordon commented:

"I'm afraid to paint my house for fear the chaff will give me a stucco job."

Councilman Joe Brink wanted to know if anything was being done about sewers which give off bad odors and those which clog up during heavy rain. He suggested the service director be asked to check on the matter.

On the dust and smoke nuisance, Clifton moved that the offenders be sent a letter asking them to remedy the situation. Council approved.

Discussion on the poor condition of many sidewalks in the city arose from criticism of the High street sidewalks in particular.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt reminded council that the city can tell property owners to repair their sidewalks and, if this is not done within a required period of time, the work can be done by the city and placed on the property owner's tax duplicate.

Of all the fields of complaint touched upon, council members indicated heaviest action for the time being will be aimed at the faulty sidewalks.

Farmers Urged To Check Pigs For Sneezing

Farmers preparing to move hogs into winter quarters this month should first check their herds for signs of sneezing pigs, or hogs with "pushed in" faces.

These two symptoms are warnings of dangerous new swine disease, atrophic rhinitis, which has been spreading rapidly on many farms.

Pigs which sneeze, or show facial distortion should be eliminated from the herd, because they can readily spread the infection to the entire drove.

Failure to halt the spread of this infection may force the owner to sell his herd and go out of the hog business.

Atrophic rhinitis has varied symptoms. In young pigs, sneezing may be the only warning, while older hogs develop the "dished-in" face. This facial distortion also occurs in another disease known as "bull nose," so a diagnosis is required to determine which disease is present.

THE DISEASE may follow a three year cycle. The first year may result in only a few pigs sneezing, but during the second year some facial distortion may be noticed.

By the third year, the infection may have spread through the entire drove, forcing the owner out of the hog business for a time. If a herd becomes infected veterinarians recommend a 90-day period of disinfecting before more hogs are purchased.

It is believed atrophic rhinitis is introduced mainly through purchase of infected hogs.

City General Fund Balance $2,450

The city's general operating fund, again below comfortable figures, drew worried attention of city council Tuesday night.

Councilman George Critt, chairman of the finance committee, commented on a balance of $2,450 for the end of September but added a cheering note.

He said a real estate tax distribution, expected within a week, will "probably enable us to get by."

The report of City Auditor Lillian Young for September was accepted.

Showing the fund, receipts, expenditures and balance, it was as follows:

General fund, $8,049.08, $10,009.51, $2,450.01; water works operating, 6,251.26, 9,151.09, 17,539.42; sewage disposal, 2,104.54, 1,513.79, 4,961.29; auto st. repair, 710.05, 3,808.01, 2,095.10; gas tax fund, 64.70, 3,466.18, 1,918.44; water works trust, 80.00, 35.00, 1,660.00; police pension fund, 90.96, 260.56, 8,723.96; firemen pension fund, 68.52, 125.00, 11,936.57; and water works improvement, 15,205.21, 6,780.99. Parking meter collections totaled $1,670 during the month.

Council Peeved At Speeders, Pavements, Dust And Smoke

Council members Tuesday agreed to take steps to check speeders, crack down on property owners for pavement repairs and find some way to stop "too much dust and smoke" from local plants.

Sentiment for action on all three of those fronts arose in the course of the meeting from a variety of individual complaints.

Touching off the discussion on speeding motorists were complaints from a delegation led by Mrs. Arnold Moats. The group told council that school children crossing South Court street near Dunmore Road were endangered by reckless motorists.

Mrs. Moats said drivers use that stretch as a "speedway" and invited the city leaders to "come down and see for yourselves." She suggested a light be placed to operate during school hours.

COUNCILMAN Boyd Horn joined in criticism of the "way they speed through there" and later turned the discussion to school safety street markings in the North End.

This in turn led several council members to point out the safety markings in some sections are partly obscured by trees. The operation of different traffic lights in the city also became a topic and the matter was finally referred to the safety committee.

At one stage of the talk, after Horn had emphasized the need for "speeder markings" in the south end of the city, Councilman Harold Clifton drew a general laugh by asking:

"Do you mean like Burma Shave signs?"

Horn also called for action against trucks so overloaded with gravel that large pieces fall to the street. Clifton added steps should be taken against trucks which litter some sections of the city with straw.

Councilman John Robinson suddenly turned the chorus of complaint against chaff blowing over city areas from local mills, and Councilman George Critt added that excessive smoke in the district should also get official attention.

"With a little bit of engineering," Critt said, "surely something can be done to cut down the smoke and dust."

AT THIS stage, Council President Ben Gordon commented: "I'm afraid to paint my house for fear the chaff will give me a stucco job."

Councilman Joe Brink wanted to know if anything was being done about sewers which give off bad odors and those which clog up during heavy rain. He suggested the service director be asked to check on the matter.

On the dust and smoke nuisance, Clifton moved that the offenders be sent a letter asking them to remedy the situation. Council approved.

Discussion on the poor condition of many sidewalks in the city arose from criticism of the High street sidewalks in particular.

City Solicitor George Gerhardt reminded council that the city can tell property owners to repair their sidewalks and, if this is not done within a required period of time, the work can be done by the city and placed on the property owner's tax duplicate.

Of all the fields of complaint touched upon, council members indicated heaviest action for the time being will be aimed at the faulty sidewalks.

Farmers Urged To Check Pigs For Sneezing

Farmers preparing to move hogs into winter quarters this month should first check their herds for signs of sneezing pigs, or hogs with "pushed in" faces.

These two symptoms are warnings of dangerous new swine disease, atrophic rhinitis, which has been spreading rapidly on many farms.

Pigs which sneeze, or show facial distortion should be eliminated from the herd, because they can readily spread the infection to the entire drove.

Failure to halt the spread of this infection may force the owner to sell his herd and go out of the hog business.

Atrophic rhinitis has varied symptoms. In young pigs, sneezing may be the only warning, while older hogs develop the "dished-in" face. This facial distortion also occurs in another disease known as "bull nose," so a diagnosis is required to determine which disease is present.

THE DISEASE may follow a three year cycle. The first year may result in only a few pigs sneezing, but during the second year some facial distortion may be noticed.

By the third year, the infection may have spread through the entire drove, forcing the owner out of the hog business for a time. If a herd becomes infected veterinarians recommend a 90-day period of disinfecting before more hogs are purchased.

It is believed atrophic rhinitis is introduced mainly through purchase of infected hogs.

NOISY AIRPLANES

RECENT crashes near airports in several large cities have centered attention on the necessity for increased safety measures, but when all has been done that can be done to lessen the hazards of take-offs and landings, commercial aviation must still deal with its noise nuisance.

A reminder of this continuing problem, the cause of an intense public resentment that the industry cannot shrug off, comes from Charles F. Horne, civil aeronautics administrator. Addressing the opening session of the Aviation Development Advisory Committee, Mr. Horne warned that if it "is not solved with dispatch, the entire aviation industry will suffer bitterly."

Except for bicycles, no land transportation is silent. Trucks and buses roar, railroad trains thunder and even the well muffled passenger car rumbles, if only from contact between tire and pavement.

However, it is possible to escape the worst of these noises, which is why millions have fled large cities and towns to make their homes in suburban areas far from railroad tracks and major highways. But not even the most remote hamlet offers refuge from the intermittent clamor of plane engines and the beat of propellers.

Aviation is essential to the nation's progress and security, but its overall importance does not alter the important political fact that it serves directly few in proportion to those who travel by other means. Discussion in the advisory committee showed a general fear that if the industry does not dampen plane noise, it will be confronted by numerous local ordinances setting minimum flying heights.

In a showdown between many determined householders and the airlines and their comparatively few passengers it is not difficult to predict which side would win in the legislatures and courts.

Committee members pointed to the progress that has been made in dampening the noise of private planes and contrasted this with the inaction of commercial aviation. There are technical difficulties in trying to lessen the noise of a great four-engined transport. But much improvement could be achieved if aeronautical engineers and designers were to give the problem only a little of the effort that has been devoted to speed.

These Days

The Central Intelligence Agency, to be effective, must be a secret, secure organization. It is the agency which gathers information and data on political and military matters. In effect, C.I.A. is a combined espionage and counter-espionage organization, representing Army, Navy, Air Force and the State Department.

There are differences of opinion in all countries as to how best to operate such an organization. Involved is the best overt and covert procedure for gathering data on a world-wide basis and the competence of those who evaluate the data. Usually, the covert agencies are separated from the overt. Similarly, it is usual to maintain numerous agencies for gathering data and one agency for evaluating data. In our country, everything is housed in the C.I.A., which some experts say is sound, while others contend that when everything is concentrated under one roof, the peril is that policy may influence the gathering and evaluation of data. That would be unfortunate.

General Walter Bedell Smith heads the C.I.A. and is generally regarded as an able man. His statement, off-the-cuff, that all security agencies, including his own, have been infiltrated by Communists, is frightening. It is often practice in intelligence organizations to use enemy personnel to gather data. The "double spy" is not unusual; he sells to both sides. A competent evaluator would know how to appraise such data.

Therefore the evaluators are of the greatest importance. If any enemy agent should get a job as an evaluator, he could wreck our policy and its implementation by eliminating useful data and distorting all data. Alger Hiss was in a position to do that in the State Department.

Therefore, General Smith's testimony on the subject cannot be taken lightly. He is an important official, a man of high integrity, and what he says on such a subject does matter. His off-the-cuff reaction to a question is even more significant than a formal statement. The C.I.A. cannot be made a political football without destroying its usefulness, but no agency of government may be permitted to be sacrosanct and not subject to Congressional scrutiny with due regard to national security.

It has been the policy of the Truman Administration to employ means for secrecy unusual among a free people. The worst step in this direction was Executive Order 9835, issued March 21, 1947. By this order, executive officers of the government were instructed to withhold information from Congressional Committees and to place all Executive Agencies under censorship. This order, together with Executive Order 10290, September 24, 1951, has been employed to protect subversive as well as corrupt officials. John P. Davies, a high State Department official, who recommended such persons as Agnes Smedley, Benjamin K. Schwartz, Edgar Snow, Anna Louise Strong and others to the C.I.A., claimed the right to withhold data from the McCarran Committee on grounds of security, where obviously security was in no manner involved.

DIET AND HEALTH

Powdered Resins Of Benefit To Some Heart Disease Patients

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PEOPLE with serious heart trouble are now being helped by powdered resins. These are chemicals related to the plastics, such as nylon. These special resins have the ability of picking up and holding certain substances in the intestines so they cannot be absorbed into the body.

Importance to Patient

Why is this so important to the heart patient? In certain types of heart failure, the heart is too weak to force the proper amount of blood to the lungs and through the body. Blood and other fluids then begin to back up in the blood vessels, and much fluid accumulates in the organs. This can occur in the lungs, liver, abdomen and legs. The legs and organs become extremely swollen and waterlogged, a condition known as edema.

Much of the waterlogging will disappear, it is believed, if the person cuts down his intake of salt—or sodium, found in salt. However, it is very difficult for a person to cut out enough sodium just by leaving salt out of his diet.

Absorption Limited

Other methods have therefore been devised to do this for him, including the use of the drugs known as exchange resins. Taken by mouth, they limit the amount of sodium absorbed by the intestines, and help prevent excess fluids in the tissues.

This does not mean that a person with heart trouble can now eat all the salt he wants. He must still restrict it as much as possible in his diet. This method of treatment is usually best in severe types of heart failure. Many times, however, mercury injections into the muscles have to be given along with the resin to help get rid of the excess fluid.

The resin is usually taken after meals. It has an unpleasant taste, but is usually not too bad if taken with fruit juice. In a few cases it may cause severe nausea and vomiting with irritation of the rectum and bowel. In addition, it is not given to a person with poor kidneys.

Doctor's Care
Anyone receiving this drug must be watched carefully by his physician so he can check both the heart disease and any complications before they get beyond control. And, of course, this drug must be taken only under the direction of a physician.

K. Q.: Is there any way birthmarks can be removed other than surgery?

Answer: The local application of carbon dioxide or dry ice is sometimes helpful in removing certain kinds of birthmarks. Of course, any such procedure should only be done by a physician.

including his own. He conceded that he had no proof, and that every safeguard against Red infiltration had been erected.

Nevertheless, no statement on this question, in the opinion of the Democratic politicians, has been more beneficial to McCarthy and his charges against the State Department. Even though Stevenson and Eisenhower have agreed not to involve Smith's CIA in the campaign for fear of jeopardizing national security, the political damage has been done.

FURIOUS — The important point is that Smith was not required to comply with the defensive Benton subpoena. And Democratic politicians, from Truman down, are furious at the Connecticut senator for his indiscreet action.

CIA officials are exempted specifically by statute from responding to judicial summons or congressional committee demands, if they believe that their testimony will tend to reveal secrets injurious to the operations of our super-spy agency. CIA has been given questionable constitutional protection because of its life-and-death importance.

Thus Benton and Smith are now high on the party's black books for the reinforcement they may have given the Republicans. The Nutmeg man may win the libel suit saving himself some money, but he has become a vote-getting liability.

BLUNDER — It was Gen. Walter Bedell Smith's naive eagerness to help two old friends — Senator Benton of Connecticut and Gen. George C. Marshall — which led the head of the Central Intelligence Agency to perpetrate what may be a prize political blunder of the campaign.

While on the stand in answer to a Benton subpoena in his $2-million libel suit with Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin (Benton is the defendant), Smith admitted frankly that there may be "Communist agents and sympathizers" in the State Department and every government security agency,

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

HE HAD almost convinced himself that his constant fatigue was at the root of it. He needed time off from the hospital. Tonight, at dinner, he had almost decided to ask for a month's leave of absence. He and Eve would go south, lie in the sun, and play, and make love. The prospect made for a lift of spirits.

Now he was plunged again in depression. A half hour ago, with a door closed inexorably in his face, he knew he'd been a fool to consider a month in the sun a panacea.

He stopped the car, sank ankle-deep into the heavy snow, and scraped off the windshield. Back in the car, he cautiously let out the clutch. The back wheels spun, found traction, and the car moved forward slowly.

Again he saw the door that had been closed tight against him, and again the white-hot anger rose in him. His nostrils flared, his hands strained at his glove seams, as he saw again the fat face in the door frame. Mentally he reconstructed the conversation. Brief, devastating.

"Good evening, Mrs. Peterson. How is Jamie?"

"My son died this morning." She'd made a move to close the door.

"Wait, Mrs. Peterson. Tell me. I tried to get you. Last night I called your house. Mrs. Ireland said that you were not at home. I left a message with her that Jamie had taken a turn for the worse. You did not come. This morning, Doctor Furlong came. . . . But Jamie is dead."

Jeremy hadn't moved, for moments. Jamie Peterson's symptoms hadn't been particularly alarming. Fever, vomiting—never to be minimized of course in diagnosis, but actually not sufficient for undue anxiety. It could have been nothing more serious than too much soda pop. It could have been, he thought, abruptly, meningitis. The rapid development of that disease made it the quick killer. Coma, death in twenty-four hours, forty-eight at the outside. He'd check with Furlong in the morning.

Could I have done something? Anything? The age-old impendments to nag at the doctor. You cut and probed, you felt pity and triumph, you won and lost—and every time you won and lost, you asked yourself, Why? Could I, somehow?

A degree in medicine didn't make you a worker of miracles. You had a measure of control over death, but yours was not the ultimate nod or headshake. But if he had gone to the boy when the woman telephoned? . . .

He stood in the snow, quite still, unbelieving—until at last he had been compelled to believe.

He had received no message, last night, from Mrs. Peterson.

There had been several calls during the evening. Eve had taken all of them. She'd chattered interminably with one of her friends about the gowns they'd wear at the club New Year's party. She'd turned down an invitation for bridge. "You didn't want to go, did you?" No, he hadn't wanted to go.

And once she'd said, when Jeremy looked up inquiringly from the radio as she came from the telephone, "Wrong number, darling." Casually, easily.

Wrong number. Jeremy had stood on the Petersons' steps until the snow lay deep in the rim of his fedora, tufted his shoulders. At last he'd stumbled along the unshoveled walk to his car.

It was quite possible that the boy might not have lived, anyway. But he and the child's mother, would have had the consolation of everything done within their power. If Eve had not lied about that telephone message . . .

Things had gone far beyond that simple remedy of a month in the sun. In this moment of recognition, he saw all the eventual moments of Eve's lies and petty, pointless subterfuges. Again and again he lied would be between them. She lied as easily as she laughed. And in the end her lies would push them miles apart.

Could you despise the lies without coming to despise the liar?

The snowdrift, hindering his progress, deepened his doubts. Twice, before he reached his street, he had to get out and clear the windshield. Then, at the corner, the car nosed bumper deep into a drift. No use putting on the chains. He got his bag from the seat beside him and walked the rest of the way.

The only light was the small outside bulb on the porch. He snapped it off behind him, groped for a moment on the wall for the living-room switch.

Eve's friends had gone, leaving their usual trail of litter and disorder. Ash trays spilled over on wood and broadloom. Glasses were on the tables, on the piano top. He moved one off the piano bench and saw the white ring on the polished wood. A beautiful surface marred, a patient's telephone call ignored—each was trivial, each of equal unimportance to Eve.

Visiting her shrug when he would tell her about the Peterson boy, anger roared through him. He went noisily upstairs, determined to wake her, make her face up to this thing tonight.

She wasn't in their room. She had probably moved on with the party, to another house, to the Country Club . . . Well, no matter. He couldn't have talked with her tonight, anyway. She'd have yawned in his face.

He would have it out with her in the morning.

She wore the embroidered gilt housecoat with the red cord for all down the front. For breakfast, Song Lee served them braised kidneys and bacon and tumbler of orange juice, and the sun blazed on whiteness outside and lay in narrow strips across the table. Jeremy thought, It all looks so perfect.

Eve murmured, "You're not eating," and heaped her own plate. She boasted that her weight never went above one hundred and ten, no matter what she ate.

Jeremy said, "Jamie Peterson died yesterday."

"Peterson?" Her brows matched the upward intonation. She cocked her head a little to one side.

He looked at her and away. She wouldn't know, of course. Jones, Smith, Peterson. All the same, to Eve.

Futility stung through him. "Eve," he said, "There was a telephone call for me from Mrs. Peterson night before last. Why didn't I get it?"

"I didn't get the message," he said.

"Miss Graham is getting careless. You should speak to her, Jeremy."

"This call came after Miss Graham went home."

"Oh? Then perhaps Song . . . You took it, Eve."

"I did?" She gave her head a little shake. "It's so easy to let little mixed up I don't remember."

"That wrong number . . . Was it, Eve?"

"If I said it was, it was."

"Did whoever was calling say it was a wrong number?"

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" She pushed at her plate. "Another cross-examination. I'm getting a little tired of them, Jeremy."

"I just wish you'd be a little more careful with my calls, Eve."

Her eyes went round and innocent. "I said I would, didn't I?"

"Yes, you said you would."

NOISY AIRPLANES
RECENT crashes near airports in several large cities have centered attention on the necessity for increased safety measures, but when all has been done that can be done to lessen the hazards of take-offs and landings, commercial aviation must still deal with its noise nuisance.

A reminder of this continuing problem, the cause of an intense public resentment that the industry cannot shrug off, comes from Charles F. Horne, civil aeronautics administrator. Addressing the opening session of the Aviation Development Advisory Committee, Mr. Horne warned that if it "is not solved with dispatch, the entire aviation industry will suffer bitterly."

Except for bicycles, no land transportation is silent. Trucks and buses roar, railroad trains thunder and even the well muffled passenger car rumbles, if only from contact between tire and pavement.

However, it is possible to escape the worst of these noises, which is why millions have fled large cities and towns to make their homes in suburban areas far from railroad tracks and major highways. But not even the most remote hamlet offers refuge from the intermittent clamor of plane engines and the beat of propellers.

Aviation is essential to the nation's progress and security, but its overall importance does not alter the important political fact that it serves directly few in proportion to those who travel by other means. Discussion in the advisory committee showed a general fear that if the industry does not dampen plane noise, it will be confronted by numerous local ordinances setting minimum flying heights.

In a showdown between many determined householders and the airlines and their comparatively few passengers it is not difficult to predict which side would win in the legislatures and courts.

Committee members pointed to the progress that has been made in dampening the noise of private planes and contrasted this with the inaction of commercial aviation. There are technical difficulties in trying to lessen the noise of a great four-engine transport. But much improvement could be achieved if aeronautical engineers and designers were to give the problem only a little of the effort that has been devoted to speed.

The Central Intelligence Agency, to be effective, must be a secret, secure organization. It is the agency which gathers information and data on political and military matters. In effect, C.I.A. is a combined espionage and counter-espionage organization, representing Army, Navy, Air Force and the State Department.

There are differences of opinion in all countries as to how best to operate such an organization. Involved is the best overt and covert procedure for gathering data on a world-wide basis and the competence of those who evaluate the data. Usually, the covert agencies are separated from the overt. Similarly, it is usual to maintain numerous agencies for gathering data and one agency for evaluating data. In our country, everything is housed in the C.I.A., which some experts say is sound, while others contend that when everything is concentrated under one roof, the peril is that policy may influence the gathering and evaluation of data. That would be unfortunate.

General Walter Bedell Smith heads the C.I.A. and is generally regarded as an able man. His statement, off-the-cuff, that all security agencies, including his own, have been infiltrated by Communists, is frightening. It is often practice in intelligence organizations to use enemy personnel to gather data. The "double spy" is not unusual; he sells to both sides. A competent evaluator would know how to appraise such data.

Therefore the evaluators are of the greatest importance. If any enemy agent should get a job as an evaluator, he could wreck our policy and its implementation by eliminating useful data and distorting all data. Alger Hiss was in a position to do that in the State Department.

Therefore, General Smith's testimony on the subject cannot be taken lightly. He is an important official, a man of high integrity, and what he says on such a subject does matter. His off-the-cuff reaction to a question is even more significant than a formal statement. The C.I.A. cannot be made a political football without destroying its usefulness, but no agency of government may be permitted to be sacrosanct and not subject to Congressional scrutiny with due regard to national security.

It has been the policy of the Truman Administration to employ means for secrecy unusual among a free people. The worst step in this direction was Executive Order 9835, issued March 21, 1947. By this order, executive officers of the government were instructed to withhold information from Congressional Committees and to place all Executive Agencies under censorship. This order, together with Executive Order 10290, September 24, 1951, has been employed to protect subversive as well as corrupt officials. John P. Davies, a high State Department official, who recommended such persons as Agnes Smedley, Benjamin K. Schwartz, Edgar Snow, Anna Louise Strong and others to the C.I.A., claimed the right to withhold data from the McCarran Committee on grounds of security, where obviously security was in no manner involved.

DIET AND HEALTH

Powdered Resins Of Benefit To Some Heart Disease Patients

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PEOPLE with serious heart trouble are now being helped by powdered resins. These are chemicals related to the plastics, such as nylon. These special resins have the ability of picking up and holding certain substances in the intestines so they cannot be absorbed into the body.

Importance to Patient
Why is this so important to the heart patient? In certain types of heart failure, the heart is too weak to force the proper amount of blood to the lungs and through the body. Blood and other fluids then begin to back up in the blood vessels, and much fluid accumulates in the organs. This can occur in the lungs, liver, abdomen and legs. The legs and organs become extremely swollen and waterlogged, a condition known as edema.

Much of the waterlogging will disappear, it is believed, if the person cuts down his intake of salt—or sodium, found in salt. However, it is very difficult for a person to cut out enough sodium just by leaving salt out of his diet.

Absorption Limited
Other methods have therefore been devised to do this for him, including the use of the drugs known as exchange resins. Taken by mouth, they limit the amount of sodium absorbed by the intestines, and help prevent excess fluids in the tissues.

This does not mean that a person with heart trouble can now eat all the salt he wants. He must still restrict it as much as possible in his diet.

This method of treatment is usually best in severe types of heart failure. Many times, however, mercury injections into the muscles have to be given along with the resin to help get rid of the excess fluid.

The resin is usually taken after meals. It has an unpleasant taste, but is usually not too bad if taken with fruit juice. In a few cases it may cause severe nausea and vomiting with irritation of the rectum and bowel. In addition, it is not given to a person with poor kidneys.

Doctor's Care
Anyone receiving this drug must be watched carefully by his physician so he can check both the heart disease and any complications before they get beyond control. And, of course, this drug must be taken only under the direction of a physician.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
K. Q.: Is there any way birthmarks can be removed other than surgery?
Answer: The local application of carbon dioxide or dry ice is sometimes helpful in removing certain kinds of birthmarks. Of course, any such procedure should only be done by a physician.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
HE HAD almost convinced himself that his constant fatigue was at the root of it. He needed time off from the hospital. Tonight, at dinner, he had almost decided to ask for a month's leave of absence. He and Eve would go south, lie in the sun, and play, and make love. The prospect made for a lift of spirits.

Now he was plunged again in depression. A half hour ago, with a door closed inexorably in his face, he knew he'd been a fool to consider a month in the sun a panacea.

He stopped the car, sank ankle-deep into the heavy snow, and scraped off the windshield. Back in the car, he cautiously let out the clutch. The back wheels spun, found traction, and the car moved forward slowly.

Again he saw the door that had been closed tight against him, and again the white-hot anger rose in him. His nostrils flared, his hands strained at his glove seams, as he saw again the flat face in the door frame. Mentally he reconstructed the conversation. Brief, devastating.

"Good evening, Mrs. Peterson. How is Jamie?"
"My son died this morning." She'd made a move to close the door.

"Wait, Mrs. Peterson. Tell me." "I tried to get you. Last night I called your house. Mrs. Ireland said that you were not at home. I left a message with her that Jamie had taken a turn for the worse. You did not come. This morning, Doctor Furlong came. . . . But Jamie is dead."

Jeremy hadn't moved, for moments. Jamie Peterson's symptoms had not been particularly alarming. Fever, vomiting—never to be minimized of course in diagnosis, but actually not sufficient for undue anxiety. It could have been nothing more serious than too much soda pop. It could have been, he thought abruptly, meningitis. The rapid development of that disease made it the quick killer. Coma, death in twenty-four hours, forty-eight at the outside. He'd check with Furlong in the morning.

Could I have done something? Anything? The age-old imponderables to nag at the doctor. You cut and probed, you felt pity and triumph, you won and lost—and every time you lost you asked yourself, Why? Could I, somehow?

A degree in medicine didn't make you a worker of miracles. You had a measure of control over death, but yours was not the ultimate nod or headshake. But if he had gone to the boy when the woman telephoned? . . . He stood in the snow, quite still, unbelieving—until at last he had been compelled to believe.

He had received no message, last night, from Mrs. Peterson.

There had been several calls during the evening. Eve had taken all of them. She'd chattered interminably with one of her friends about the gowns they'd wear at the club New Year's party. She'd turned down an invitation for bridge. "You didn't want to go, did you?" No, he hadn't wanted to go. And once she'd said, when Jeremy looked up inquiringly from the radio as she came from the telephone, "Wrong number, darling." Casually, easily.

Wrong number. Jeremy had stood on the Petersons' steps until the snow lay deep in the rim of his fedora, tufted his shoulders. At last he'd stumbled along the unshoveled walk to his car.

It was quite possible that the boy might not have lived, anyway. But he, and the child's mother, would have had the consolation of everything done within their power. If Eve had not lied about that telephone message . . .

Things had gone far beyond that simple remedy of a month in the sun. In this moment of recognition, he saw all the eventual moments of Eve's lies and petty, pointless subterfuges. Again and again her lies would be between them. She lied as easily as she laughed. And in the end her lies would push them miles apart.

Could you despise the lies without coming to despise the liar?

The snowdrifts, hindering his progress, deepened his doubts. Twice, before he reached his street, he had to get out and clear the windshield. Then, at the corner, the car nosed bumper deep into a drift. No use putting on the chains. He got his bag from the seat beside him and walked the rest of the way.

The only light was the small outside bulb on the porch. He snapped it off behind him, groped for a moment on the wall for the living-room switch.

Eve's friends had gone, leaving their usual trail of litter and disorder. Ash trays spilled over on wood and broadloom. Glasses were on the tables, on the piano top. He moved one of the piano benches and saw the white ring on the polished wood. A beautiful surface marred, a patient's telephone call ignored—each was trivial, each of equal unimportance to Eve.

Visions of her shrug when he would tell her about the Peterson boy, anger roared through him. He

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—A novel and refreshing form of frankness in a presidential candidate has been exhibited by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson in answering the question of how his religious faith would affect his "decisions and actions," if he becomes President of the United States. It is doubtful if this kind of query was ever submitted to a White House aspirant in the past.

They have been asked to give their views on prices and wages, foreign affairs, tariff and trade problems and on many other earthly issues. As a result of the Nixon affair, they are now making public the amounts of their income, their taxes and their acceptance of political contributions before and after taking office. Television has brought their voices, their faces and their mannerisms into millions of homes.

In view of these developments, which may result in a record turnout in the November election, only FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's "most wanted criminal" and "Public Enemy No. 1" will be more widely advertised than the two men who seek the highest office in the land.

Nevertheless, this pre-election examination of a nominee's conscience and deepest personal beliefs establishes a precedent in American politics.

LEGITIMATE—Stevenson admitted that he had certain qualms about answering the question when it was submitted to him by the enterprising "Episcopal Churchman," a weekly publication of Richmond, Va. But, in an indirect challenge to his opponent, he came to the conclusion that "it is a legitimate inquiry in judging any man's fitness for public office."

"I have always believed," he added, "that a man's personal religious beliefs had no proper place in our political life, except as they may influence his public acts and thus affect the public welfare."

Now that the Democratic nominee has fixed the pattern, whether he did it deliberately or not, current and future candidates for the presidency may be expected to unbuckle their souls.

RESOURCE—In his amazing declaration, Stevenson leaves no doubt of his belief that "religious faith remains our greatest national resource." In his opinion, it is the "ultimate foundation beneath the strength and the security of the Republic," surpassing in importance "our wealth, our productive ingenuity and our arms."

He then applied the influence of "religious faith" directly to the problems of politics and government, continuing:

"We think that, in the tasks of government as in all other aspects of life, it is incumbent upon us not only to serve righteousness—the good, the ideal—but at times to take risks for it."

including his own. He conceded that he had no proof, and that every safeguard against Red infiltration had been erected.

Nevertheless, no statement on this question, in the opinion of the Democratic politicians, has been more beneficial to McCarthy and his charges against the State Department. Even though Stevenson and Eisenhower have agreed not to involve Smith's CIA in the campaign for fear of jeopardizing national security, the political damage has been done.

FURIOUS—The important point is that Smith was not required to comply with the defensive Benton subpoena. And Democratic politicians, from Truman down, are furious at the Connecticut senator for his indiscreet action.

CIA officials are exempted specifically by statute from responding to judicial summons or congressional committee demands, if they believe that their testimony will tend to reveal secrets injurious to the operations of our super-spy agency. CIA has been given questionable constitutional protection because of its life-and-death importance.

Thus Benton and Smith are now high on the party's black books for the reinforcement they may have given the Republicans. The Nutmeg man may win the libel suit saving himself some money, but he has become a vote-getting liability.

Nevertheless, no statement on this question, in the opinion of the Democratic politicians, has been more beneficial to McCarthy and his charges against the State Department. Even though Stevenson and Eisenhower have agreed not to involve Smith's CIA in the campaign for fear of jeopardizing national security, the political damage has been done.

Girl Scouts Preparing For Pumpkin Show Exhibit

Display To Be In Court House

Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scouts are preparing their annual exhibit for the 1952 Pumpkin Show, to be held in the lobby of the court house.

All entries must be part of the badge work program or the work must be done at troop meetings by the scouts. Visitors and parents will therefore have the opportunity to view the type of work encouraged and done by the members.

Leaders will make arrangements for scout members or brownies to be present at all times to serve as hostesses.

Entries will be received between 1 p. m. and 5:30 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the court house by the directors, Mrs. Robert Hedges, Mrs. Collis Young and Mrs. Wes Edstrom. They will be assisted by Mrs. William Steele, Mrs. Don Henkle, Mrs. Joe Goeller, Mrs. Fritz Sieverts and Mrs. Donald Mitchell.

Entries should be called for and checked out between 4 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 25. Committee to be present will be Mrs. John Larimore, Mrs. E. L. Montgomery, Mrs. Ernest Young and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Mrs. Foster Rinehart, past president of the Chillicothe and Ross County Girl Scout Association and Mrs. Z. S. McKee, senior scout leader of Chillicothe, will serve as judges.

Articles to be judged will come under four classifications including, life out of doors, arts and crafts, homemaking and troop projects.

The Scouts participation in the parade will be supervised by Mrs. Robert Thomas. Girl Scouts and Brownies to take part are asked to meet at 2 p. m. Oct. 25 on Watt street, between Court and Pickaway streets. The troops will be accompanied by an adult.

Mrs. George Barnes and Mrs. Gunner Musselman will also assist with the decorations; Troop 22 under the leadership of Mrs. Eleanor Dawson will have charge of the window display, and Mrs. Robert Smithers, leader of Troop 9, will be responsible for the float.

Monrovia Club Has Meeting In Rogers Home

October meeting of the Monrovia Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. Joe Rogers.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Clyde Michael followed by a scripture reading by Mrs. Ethel Furniss and prayer by Mrs. Lulu Sheets.

Mrs. Opal Fowler and Mrs. Garnet Porter gave reports on the convention held in Columbus. The President announced that last year's year book committee received first prize with a grade of 92.

Mrs. Wanda Liston gave a report on how to gather flowers for winter arrangements. Those bringing flower arrangements and giving reports on them were Mrs. Harold Adkins, Mrs. Ben Conley, Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. Edwin Fowler, and Mrs. George Adkins.

Plans were made to visit "The Bird Sanctuary" at Mrs. Frank Warners in the Hocking hills on Tuesday.

At the close of the meeting a gift was presented to the outgoing president Mrs. Fowler. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rogers assisted by Mrs. John O'Day, Mrs. Edwin Fowler, Mrs. Herman Porter, Mrs. Charles Fowler.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wanda Liston.

Turner Home Scene Of Meet

Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the First Methodist church met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Wendell Turner, Cedar Heights road.

Deviations were led by Miss Ruth Stout and reports were heard from various committees.

Games were played and prizes were awarded Mrs. Howard Cook and Mrs. Boyce Parks.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. J. L. Chilcote, Mrs. Marvene Turner, Miss Stout and Mrs. Norman Kutler. The time and place of the next meeting will be announced later.

Morning Meeting Held By Guild

Mrs. Karl Mason was hostess to members of Berger hospital Guild 21, Tuesday morning in her home on Watt street.

Mrs. Charles DeVoss presided at the meeting.

Coffee was served, after which the business meeting was held.

The next meeting, Nov. 13, will be a luncheon at 1 p. m. at the Pickaway Arms.

John C. Goeller Is Honored On 85th Birthday

John C. Goeller, 304 East Mound street, was honored guest at a dinner Tuesday evening, in celebration of his 85th birthday anniversary.

The family dinner was given at the Pickaway Arms.

Guests were Mrs. Goeller, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Goeller, III of Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Goeller, Sr., Mrs. Mary Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Goeller, Jr., Mrs. Ned Plum, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moon and the honored guest.

Star Grange Has Program

Star Grange met recently in Monroe School with Worthy Master, Winfred Bidwell, presiding.

Annual inspection was held with the county deputy present.

The lecturer opened her program with a piano solo by Margaret Reid. Cecil Reid, C. E. Dick, Paul Long, Dwight Reid, Francis Furniss, Carl Dudgeon and Joe Armstrong each gave a short report on present markets.

A short play entitled, "Golden Rule Days," was presented by Florence Long, Suzanne Porter, Vonna Bach, Miriam Bach, Suzanne Haller and Kay Pollard. "My Own Ohio," was read by Mrs. Lyle Davis and Mrs. Carl Dudgeon sang, "Beautiful Ohio."

The program closed with group singing. At the next meeting Cecil Reid will show slides taken on a recent trip through the West. A covered dish supper was served after the meeting.

Mrs. Williams Feted At Party

Mrs. Claribel Williams of Washington C.H., daughter of Mrs. Paul Olney of 411 South Washington street, was honored recently when her mother entertained at a stork shower in her honor.

Games were played and prizes went to Mrs. Helen Watts of Springfield, Mrs. Leona Thomas, Mrs. Mike Dearth and Mrs. Richard Olney.

Guests were Mrs. Watts, Mrs. DeLores Olney, Mrs. Marjorie Olney, Mrs. Maude Olney, Miss Martha Barthelmas, Mrs. Bernice Garrett, Mrs. Arie Leist, Mrs. Lillie Smith, Mrs. Mack Young, Mrs. Mary Noble, Mrs. Olie Lemon, Mrs. Leona Thomas, Mrs. Joan Fohl, Mrs. Lucille Fohl, Mrs. Mildred Downs, Mrs. Warren Williams, Mrs. Barbara Long, Mrs. Juanita McKenzie, Mrs. Mike Dearth and Mrs. Mary Olney.

Personals

HOW I LOST 47 POUNDS

MR. R. FRIEDRICK, 124 1/2 LAKE RD., VERMILION, OHIO

Mr. R. Friedrich writes: "I can sincerely recommend RENNEL Concentrate for those who are overweight. I have been using Rennel for several months, and in this time I have lost 47 pounds. Since losing this excess weight I look better and I feel better."

Imagine, eat plenty and lose weight with this safe, effective RENNEL formula. It's simple—low in cost and fully guaranteed. Obtain liquid RENNEL Concentrate at your drug store. Mix with fruit juice as per instructions on bottle, and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. You eat normal, regular meals. No need to starve yourself—No tablets to fortify you against weakness while following rigid, unpleasant diets, because RENNEL in liquid form safely takes care of your desire for sweets and fatty foods. It definitely stops you from eating more than necessary for the energy you spend. At the same time it dehydrates and eliminates, almost like melting fat. You feel better, more peppy, more alive, but never starved or hungry. Most important of all note how easily and naturally your excess weight fades away, how quickly bloated disappears, how much better you look and feel as your figure becomes younger and your vitality increases. Results are guaranteed with the very first bottle. $1.40 at all drug stores. Insist on genuine RENNEL Concentrate.

Girl Scouts Preparing For Pumpkin Show Exhibit

Display To Be In Court House

Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scouts are preparing their annual exhibit for the 1952 Pumpkin Show, to be held in the lobby of the court house.

All entries must be part of the badge work program or the work must be done at troop meetings by the scouts. Visitors and parents will therefore have the opportunity to view the type of work encouraged and done by the members.

Leaders will make arrangements for scout members or brownies to be present at all times to serve as hostesses.

Entries will be received between 1 p. m. and 5:30 p. m., Wednesday, Oct. 22 at the court house by the directors, Mrs. Robert Hedges, Mrs. Collis Young and Mrs. Wes Edstrom. They will be assisted by Mrs. William Steele, Mrs. Don Henkle, Mrs. Joe Goeller, Mrs. Fritz Sieverts and Mrs. Donald Mitchell.

Entries should be called for and checked out between 4 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 25. Committee to be present will be Mrs. John Larimore, Mrs. E. L. Montgomery, Mrs. Ernest Young and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Mrs. Foster Rinehart, past president of the Chillicothe and Ross County Girl Scout Association and Mrs. Z. S. McKee, senior scout leader of Chillicothe, will serve as judges.

Articles to be judged will come under four classifications including, life out of doors, arts and crafts, homemaking and troop projects.

The Scouts participation in the parade will be supervised by Mrs. Robert Thomas. Girl Scouts and Brownies to take part are asked to meet at 2 p. m. Oct. 25 on Watt street, between Court and Pickaway streets. The troops will be accompanied by an adult.

Mrs. George Barnes and Mrs. Gunner Musselman will also assist with the decorations; Troop 22 under the leadership of Mrs. Eleanor Dawson will have charge of the window display, and Mrs. Robert Smithers, leader of Troop 9, will be responsible for the float.

Monrovia Club Has Meeting In Rogers Home

October meeting of the Monrovia Garden Club was held in the home of Mrs. Joe Rogers.

The meeting was called to order by the new president, Mrs. Clyde Michael followed by a scripture reading by Mrs. Ethel Furniss and prayer by Mrs. Lulu Sheets.

Mrs. Opal Fowler and Mrs. Garnet Porter gave reports on the convention held in Columbus. The President announced that last year's year book committee received first prize with a grade of 92.

Mrs. Wanda Liston gave a report on how to gather flowers for winter arrangements. Those bringing flower arrangements and giving reports on them were Mrs. Harold Adkins, Mrs. Ben Conley, Mrs. Shirley Anderson, Mrs. Edwin Fowler, and Mrs. George Adkins.

Plans were made to visit "The Bird Sanctuary" at Mrs. Frank Warners in the Hocking hills on Tuesday.

At the close of the meeting a gift was presented to the outgoing president Mrs. Fowler. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rogers assisted by Mrs. John O'Day, Mrs. Edwin Fowler, Mrs. Herman Porter, Mrs. Charles Fowler.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wanda Liston.

Turner Home Scene Of Meet

Mrs. Marion's Sunday School Class of the First Methodist church met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Wendell Turner, Cedar Heights road.

Devotions were led by Miss Ruth Stout and reports were heard from various committees.

Games were played and prizes were awarded Mrs. Howard Cook and Mrs. Boyce Parks.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. J. L. Chilcote, Mrs. Marvene Turner, Miss Stout and Mrs. Norman Kutler. The time and place of the next meeting will be announced later.

Morning Meeting Held By Guild

Mrs. Karl Mason was hostess to members of Berger hospital Guild 21, Tuesday morning in her home on Watt street.

Mrs. Charles DeVoss presided at the meeting.

Coffee was served, after which the business meeting was held.

The next meeting, Nov. 13, will be a luncheon at 1 p. m. at the Pickaway Arms.

Personals

Members of the Philathea Club of Commercial Point will meet in the home of Mrs. Ben Grace next Tuesday at 8 p. m. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Vonna Rasor, Mrs. Harold Wilson and Mrs. Leslie Melvin. Mrs. Robert Wrights (Lucille Neal) will give a talk and show slides of her Puerto Rico trip.

Old Stove Roundup Time Is Here; Dealers Corral Outdated Ranges

When the old-time cowboy had a chore down on the "south forty," he saddled up Old Paint and re-signed himself to a long, slow ride.

Now he jumps in his jeep or hops in a light plane and he's there in a jiffy. His travel habits are changing to keep up with the times.

Circleville Gas appliance dealers sponsoring the "Old Stove Round-up" say the nation's cooking habits are changing, too. Just as the modern rancher is finding more efficient ways to travel, the modern homemaker is discovering better ways to cook.

For today's homemaker, food work is mostly preparation and serving, range dealers say. They explain that once the meal is placed in the oven, the automatic gas range takes over the cooking chores.

Cooking may be started and stopped while the housewife is away from home—a big point these days when many women are employed or have other outside interests.

TO CALL attention to the efficiency and convenience of modern gas ranges, as well as to their streamlined beauty, gas dealers throughout the city are cooperating in the annual "Old Stove Round-up" during October.

Their goal is to replace every range over 10 years old with a sleek new model that takes the drudgery out of cooking. These pages of The Herald feature the offers of city appliance dealers during the "Roundup."

Some of the features emphasized are:

"Simmer" burners which provide just the right amount of heat for delicate or long-time cooking processes.

The automatic clock control which turns on the oven at the time set and turns off at just the right time.

Gas range broilers offering the homemaker cool, smokeless broiling. Broiler pans are designed to drain fat away from the heat zone, giving smokeless broiling.

Ovens enclosed in thick blankets of insulation to keep heat in the oven and out of the kitchen.

Many models have double ovens for the pleasure of the woman who does lots of baking. Oven windows and lights eliminate opening the oven door during baking.

Church Juke Box Growing Popular

HARRISON, N. J., Oct. 8.—You'll find a jukebox in the choir loft in St. John's Lutheran Church here, and when you make a selection (for free) out pours the soothing strains of a hymn.

The church's pastor, 37-year-old Rev. Theodore Bornhoft, was concerned because there wasn't enough response to his new policy of keeping the church open all day as a place for prayer and meditation. So the juke box was installed and according to Rev. Mr. Bornhoft, is fast becoming one of the most played music machines in town.

Wanted Ohio GI Held By Army

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 8.—U. S. Army officials have announced that Pvt. Eugene Walters of Harrod, Ohio, sought for eight months in the kidnapping of an American high school girl in Frankfurt, has surrendered to authorities in West Berlin.

Walters, 28-year-old divorced father of two children, was sought for questioning in the Feb. 3 abduction here of Mamie Ruth Shelton, 18. She was kept for an hour in a car by a gunman in U. S. Army uniform who molested the girl but did not rape her.

Hearst Estate Near $56½ Million

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—William Randolph Hearst's estate has been appraised at $40,499,214 on the basis of assets listed so far, but attorneys indicate that still other assets will boost the gross value to $56½ million.

The publisher died Aug. 14, 1951, at the age of 88. He left most of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Millicent V. Hearst, their five sons and charitable foundations.

THE U. S. NAVY ANNOUNCED that in addition to the battleship Mississippi it has two submarines and a former seaplane tender capable of launching guided missiles. ### Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Teen Tips

Manners at the table tell plenty about the kind of girl or boy you are. So why not make them good? Correct manners also give you self-confidence that comes from knowing what to do and how to do it. So why not check this easy list:

- 1—Stirring tea or coffee should be a quiet process. . . no noise or clatter. Keep your stirring inconspicuous.
- 2—Watch those elbows! Keep them off the table instead of sprawling or leaning on them. When you're not eating, your hands belong in your lap and your elbows close to your body. It's correct to keep them close to the body when cutting meat, too. Taking too much elbow room at the table, especially in crowded places, is annoying to others as well as unattractive.
- 3—Don't point or gesture with your knife or fork. When they're not in use, put them side by side on your plate.

4—Don't EVER comb your hair at the table. Girls often do this in restaurants, snack bars and drug stores in spite of the fact that it is unappetizing for others and unsanitary. Others near you don't want loose hair, dust and dandruff on their food and clothes. So go to the powder room to comb your hair instead of doing it in public places such as restaurants, theater seats, buses and trains.

5—Hold your fork between your thumb and first and second fingers near the end of the handle instead of gripping it down near the prongs.

Heavy Rains Hit South Florida

PAHOKEE, Fla., Oct. 8.—Flood waters from heavy rains have covered about 10,000 acres of muckland along the southeastern shore of Lake Okeechobee. Pumps are working around the clock as farmers seek to drain off from four to six inches of rain which saturated this section of South Florida in a 24-hour period. Officials said harvesting of sugar cane would be delayed. Vegetable crops were threatened.

West New York Gets First Snow

CORNING, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Up to two inches of wet snow fell in western New York Tuesday and an oldtimer said it was the earliest he had seen in at least 25 years. The storm disrupted power service in Wellsville and two schools in Hornell were closed because of the hazard of live wires torn down.

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Manners at the table tell plenty about the kind of girl or boy you are. So why not make them good? Correct manners also give you self-confidence that comes from knowing what to do and how to do it time set and turns off at just the right time.

1—Stirring tea or coffee should be a quiet process. . . no noise or clatter. Keep your stirring inconspicuous.

2—Watch those elbows! Keep them off the table instead of sprawling or leaning on them. When you're not eating, your hands belong in your lap and your elbows close to your body. It's correct to keep them close to the body when cutting meat, too. Taking too much elbow room at the table, especially in crowded places, is annoying to others as well as unattractive.

3—Don't point or gesture with your knife or fork. When they're not in use, put them side by side on your plate.

4—Don't EVER comb your hair at the table. Girls often do this in restaurants, snack bars and drug stores in spite of the fact that it is unappetizing for others and unsanitary. Others near you don't want loose hair, dust and dandruff on their food and clothes. So go to the powder room to comb your hair instead of doing it in public places such as restaurants, theater seats, buses and trains.

5—Hold your fork between your thumb and first and second fingers near the end of the handle instead of gripping it down near the prongs.

Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

It's very discouraging to a youth in junior high school, senior high school or college when a written paper is returned to him with many misspelled words marked on it with a colored pencil.

And how annoying are these misspelled words to the teacher. This annoyance tends to cause her to grade the paper much lower than she otherwise would.

Some youths, otherwise pretty good at books, are such miserable spellers that they're ridiculed by their teacher and classmates for it—even by members of their own family.

These youths may suppose they will never learn to spell. And some of them do give up in hopeless despair.

Any youth with average intelligence can learn to spell if he has no visual or auditory defects. He can best gain the courage to try, if he can be wholly freed from ridicule and rebuke for his bad spelling. He must want to spell well and to believe he can.

If you are a youth who spells poorly and if you wish to improve your spelling, do somewhat as follows: When a written paper of yours is returned with a number of words marked as wrongly spelled, copy these words in a notebook or on cards, one word to a card.

Use the dictionary to help you spell them correctly. If you have companionable parents who can spell well, they might be glad to spell these words for you as you write them.

Set a time each day when you will study these words, looking carefully at them with a view to learning their correct spelling. At each such period, review the words you had learned to spell earlier.

You might get a sympathetic member of the family to pronounce these words for you, when you are pretty sure you can spell them. Make it a rule never to look away from a word while you try to spell it before you are sure you can spell it right. Never hurry. It's better not to spell a word at all than to spell it wrong. Make "accuracy" your slogan.

If you are writing a creative composition at home, and wish to get your ideas down as they come to you, don't bother about the spelling when you make the first draft. Copy it later with emphasis on correct spelling.

I hope you never feel hesitant about asking your parents to spell words for you when you are doing written work at home. Even if you must call to them in another room and they must call the spelling back to you, be sure to do so.

In each school subject, notice the new key words or technical terms as they appear in each new item in class or in your book. Carefully observe and memorize their spelling. Some teachers help by pointing out such words or even require their students to learn to spell them.

Yes, practically anybody can learn to spell well.

A. You gave up too soon. You should have repeated the "dosage" till he was cured. He guessed right, that you would easily give up. Once he is convinced you really mean business the problem will end.

Q. Why is it that an otherwise kind and loving husband may, while trying to teach his wife to drive a car, become unreasonable and impatient with her when she makes mistakes at it?

A. For the same reason you may be unreasonable and impatient with your child while trying to help him with his book learning. It's not easy to be patient when teaching another member of the family, though it can be done.

Sokolosky's These Days

It is dangerous for this country when the term "security" is used as a cover-up by errant officials. When national security is actually involved, all should stand by the country and even the Administration. When the word, "security," is cheapened and abused, when it is employed falsely, the danger is that the term will lose its specific meaning and become synonymous with alibi. That danger is imminent.

President Roosevelt was often careless in his statements, as, for instance, when after the Atlantic Conference he stated that no new commitments had been made between himself and Winston Churchill; it was subsequently established that new commitments had been made. Senator Ferguson has stated that even in the Pearl Harbor investigation facts were withheld. He said:

"I shall never forget the experience nor the road blocks that were put in our way. Hearings were held for 70 days and a record of 10 million words was accumulated, but from beginning to end vital documents were withheld, crucial witnesses declined to appear, and, under pressure, other witnesses altered their testimony—everywhere secrecy and suppression."

When secrecy is used to cloak failure, when its object is to evade the proper scrutiny by the people into their own affairs, when high officials say what only too soon turns out to be untrue and use the word, security, to deceive—the faith in the Administration is lost by the people.

It can be worse, because faith in our system of government can be weakened.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—It's an old political saw that in an ordinary election year the voters make up their minds by October and nothing the candidates say thereafter will change them.

But this is no ordinary election year. If this campaign were limited strictly to an expression of views on the issues—like corruption, Korea or high taxes—it would seem Eisenhower and Stevenson already had laid down theirs by Oct. 1.

Since then they've been repeating themselves on the obvious issues just mentioned.

But this campaign has gone beyond simple statements on the issues: President Truman, although not running, is campaigning as hard as if he were; there was the Nixon expense fund episode; and the Illinois fund to augment salaries of certain state workers; and Stevenson and Sen. John J. Sparkman disclosed their income tax returns.

NEVERTHELESS all the foregoing (statements and episodes) had been known or occurred around Oct. 1. So there wouldn't be much to change any minds after that date if the campaign then hit a flat plane and tapered off in monotony. This one hasn't. Since September it has picked up in intensity. At the rate it's going—and in view of the previous sensations—there should be no surprise if the campaign reaches explosive force by election day.

One of the puzzling performances has been Truman's. In a little over a week on the road he has turned on Eisenhower with a mounting fierceness which this week seemed to reach a climax.

He said the general had betrayed his principles and was unfit for the presidency. It would seem he could hardly say anything worse before Nov. 4.

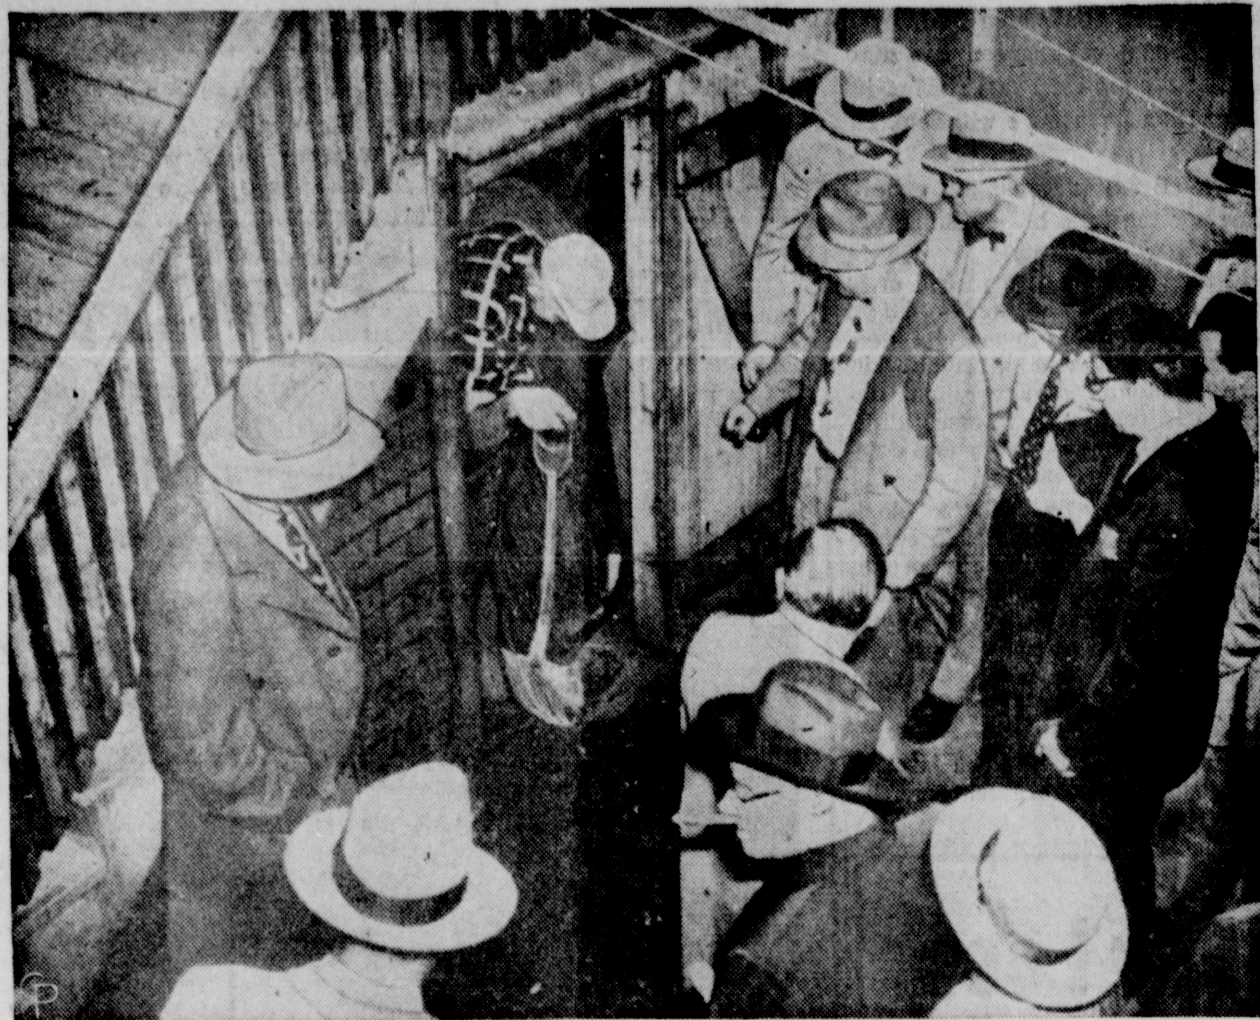

Yet, Truman is an experienced politician who knows the value of building up steadily toward a climax at election, not throwing the Sunday punch too soon.

So perhaps Truman's attack on Eisenhower, rough as it's been, is still far from a climax.

Eisenhower, who has shown no inclination to take a clubbing lying down, can be expected to respond to heat with heat. In that kind of fiery furnace, with the voters watching, anything might happen.

Actually, Eisenhower is getting the old one-two punch, with Stevenson slugging from the other side.

Stevenson, who spent his first campaign month talking on the issues, is showing signs of going after Eisenhower with his bare hands. So the general will have to take him on, too.

Trellis Mae Sees Series Game, Wins Bet, Captures Souvenir

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK.—Wilbur Peeble, America's average citizen, thought it was the break of a lifetime when an old friend gave him tickets to the World Series.

He wasn't so sure, however, when his wife said she wouldn't let him go to the big city without her. Wilbur knew Trellis Mae's knowledge of baseball consisted of a dim conviction that a batter was something you stirred up in a kitchen.

"I'll take you on one condition—that you don't bother me with a single question during the entire game," he said.

She agreed. But the day of the game Trellis Mae insisted he leave the hotel and accompany her on a shopping tour. They missed lunch and got to the ball park in the third inning.

"They oughtn't allow women," fumed Wilbur, as they sat down in their seats in the upper stand near the rightfield foul pole.

Trellis Mae turned her back on him and confided to a beefy, red-nosed Dodger fan next to her:

"My husband won't let me talk to him. Will you tell me what is the real object of this game?"

"Well, it's—it's to get the most runs," said the fan.

"What are they standing there for then? Why don't they all start running?"

As the fan's jaw dropped, Trellis Mae said, "When do they take their naps?"

"Naps?"

"Isn't that what those cute little white pillows are for?" she asked, pointing at the base bags. Next she wanted to know if they wouldn't dress up the game if they used lady umpires, then she scribbled a postcard saying, "Scenery wonderful—wish you were here," and demanded, "Where's the mailbox?"

The red nose of her neighbor turned a mottled blue.

Bored, Trellis Mae started watching the metal foul pole as it swayed back and forth in the wind. Soon she felt nauseated.

"Wilbur, I'm seasick," she said.

"But nobody ever got seasick at a baseball game—it's impossible."

"Well, I am. It must be because I didn't eat. You'd better go get me a hot dog or you'll be awfully sorry."

Wilbur went. A great roar rose from the crowd a moment later. When Wilbur scrambled back, the red-nosed man said: "Johnny Mize just poled one into the stands—a good one."

"You mean," said Wilbur brokenly, "I missed the only chance of my life to see Mize

knock a homerun?"

"I missed it myself. Your wife was bending my ear."

"It went right in front of us," said Trellis Mae. "You could almost count the stitches."

She took the hot dog and objected, "You forgot the mustard, dear. I just can't eat it without mustard."

Too stunned to protest, Wilbur went back for the mustard. The Dodger fan leaned over and whispered something to Trellis Mae. She looked surprised, then nodded.

Trellis Mae ate her hot dog, then pulled out a sheet of paper and silently began to make out her Christmas shopping list. She never even looked out again at the playing field.

As they filed out at the end of the game the red-nosed man grudgingly drew a bill from his pocket and put it in her hand.

"I'll bet you don't even know who won," said Wilbur glumly.

"I did."

"You did?"

"Sure," said Trellis Mae, "that red-nosed fellow bet me $5 I couldn't keep my mouth shut for the rest of the game. Wait here a minute, Wilbur."

She loped away and returned

15 minutes later breathlessly lugging a ball bat.

"He didn't want to give it to me at first," said Trellis Mae, "but I told him he would need a new one next year anyway."

Surprised, her husband took the bat, then reverently read the inscription: "To Wilbur, one to remember, (signed) Johnny Mize."

As Wilbur gratefully bent to kiss her, Trellis Mae murmured:

"I tried to get you one of those little white pillows for a souvenir, too, but some darned fool had tied them all down."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—It's an old political saw that in an ordinary election year the voters make up their minds by October and nothing the candidates say thereafter will change them.

But this is no ordinary election year. If this campaign were limited strictly to an expression of views on the issues—like corruption, Korea or high taxes—it would seem Eisenhower and Stevenson already had laid down theirs by Oct. 1.

Since then they've been repeating themselves on the obvious issues just mentioned.

But this campaign has gone beyond simple statements on the issues: President Truman, although not running, is campaigning as hard as if he were; there was the Nixon expense fund episode; and the Illinois fund to augment salaries of certain state workers; and Stevenson and Sen. John J. Sparkman disclosed their income tax returns.

NEVERTHELESS all the foregoing (statements and episodes) had been known or occurred around Oct. 1. So there wouldn't be much to change any minds after that date if the campaign then hit a flat plane and tapered off in monotony.

This one hasn't. Since September it has picked up in intensity. At the rate it's going—and in view of the previous sensations—there should be no surprise if the campaign reaches explosive force by election day.

One of the puzzling performances has been Truman's. In a little over a week on the road he has turned on Eisenhower with a mounting fierceness which this week seemed to reach a climax.

He said the general had betrayed his principles and was unfit for the presidency. It would seem he could hardly say anything worse before Nov. 4.

Yet, Truman is an experienced politician who knows the value of building up steadily toward a climax at election, not throwing the Sunday punch too soon.

So perhaps Truman's attack on Eisenhower, rough as it's been, is still far from a climax.

Eisenhower, who has shown no inclination to take a clubbing lying down, can be expected to respond to heat with heat. In that kind of fiery furnace, with the voters watching, anything might happen.

Actually, Eisenhower is getting the old one-two punch, with Stevenson slugging from the other side.

Stevenson, who spent his first campaign month talking on the issues, is showing signs of going after Eisenhower with his bare hands. So the general will have to take him on, too.

ROBERT JAMES, 43, an admitted bigamist, emerges from under porch in Chicago after spading up body of wife No. 3, Harriet Rose James, 40, after telling police he strangled her Sept. 19 "because she drank and ran around with other men." He said he has a wife in Memphis, Tenn., and another in Phoenix, Ariz. James' activities came to light when Harriet's parents became suspicious on receiving a letter purportedly mailed by her from Oklahoma City, Okla. James admitted he wrote the letter, sent it to Oklahoma City postmaster in another envelope for remailing back to Chicago. (International Soundphoto)

Trellis Mae Sees Series Game, Wins Bet, Captures Souvenir

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK.—Wilbur Peeble, America's average citizen, thought it was the break of a lifetime when an old friend gave him tickets to the World Series.

He wasn't so sure, however, when his wife said she wouldn't let him go to the big city without her. Wilbur knew Trellis Mae's knowledge of baseball consisted of a dim conviction that a batter was something you stirred up in a kitchen.

"I'll take you on one condition—that you don't bother me with a single question during the entire game," he said.

She agreed. But the day of the game Trellis Mae insisted he leave the hotel and accompany her on a shopping tour. They missed lunch and got to the ball park in the third inning.

"They oughtn't allow women," fumed Wilbur, as they sat down in their seats in the upper stand near the rightfield foul pole.

Trellis Mae turned her back on him and confided to a beefy, red-nosed Dodger fan next to her: "My husband won't let me talk to him. Will you tell me what is the real object of this game?"

"Well, it's—it's to get the most runs," said the fan.

"What are they standing there for then? Why don't they all start running?"

As the fan's jaw dropped, Trellis Mae said, "When do they take their naps?"

"Naps?"

"Isn't that what those cute little white pillows are for?" she asked, pointing at the base bags. Next she wanted to know if it wouldn't dress up the game if they used lady umpires, then she scribbled a postcard saying, "Scenery wonderful—wish you were here," and demanded, "Where's the mailbox?"

The red nose of her neighbor turned a mottled blue.

Bored, Trellis Mae started watching the metal foul pole as it swayed back and forth in the wind. Soon she felt nauseated.

"Wilbur, I'm seasick," she said.

"But nobody ever got seasick at a baseball game—it's impossible."

"Well, I am. It must be because I didn't eat. You'd better go get me a hot dog or you'll be awfully sorry."

Wilbur went. A great roar rose from the crowd a moment later. When Wilbur scrambled back, the red-nosed man said: "Johnny Mize just poled one into the stands—a good one."

"You mean," said Wilbur brokenly, "I missed the only chance of my life to see Mize

City Council Gives Approval On Fund Transfer Requests

City council Tuesday night passed five ordinances, four of them calling for transfer of funds.

Councilman Ray Cook was absent.

Measures passed were: an ordinance to fix the salary of Council President Ben Gordon at $300 a year, payable $25 monthly.

Gordon has been receiving that amount as regular salary for councilman, and the action was intended only as formality to specify pay for the council head.

Only 54 Pints Blood Given Here Tuesday

Only 54 pints of blood were collected in Cincinnati Tuesday during the October visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in First EUB church.

Local officials in the blood collection program pointed out lack of interest caused the county to take in less than half of its 125-pint quota for the day.

Officials said only 56 persons showed up at Tuesday's program, with all but two donating blood. Next visit of the Bloodmobile here will be Dec. 1 in First Methodist church.

Persons who donated blood Tuesday, listed by the group which they represented, were as follows:

- Ashville — Mrs. Mary Alice Peters.
- Telephone Co. — Mrs. Earl Brady.
- First EUB church — Mrs. Catherine Martin.
- Walnut Twp. PTA — Mrs. Louise Hines.
- Container Corp. — Luther Walton, Millard Moore, Robert Barnes, Charles LeMaster and Daniel Brannon.
- Eshelman Grain Co. — Dudley Carpenter.
- Ralston Purina — Wilbur Warner, Edwin Bach Jr., Clyde Fuller and Marion Steinhauer.
- American Legion — George Helwagen.
- Maize Mills — Milbert Clendenen.
- Methodist church — Richard Pettit, Robert Wilson and Mrs. Muriel Miller.
- St. Joseph's church — Msgr. George Mason, Donald Goeller and Mrs. Sheldon Mader.
- Pontious EUB church — Clarence Clark, Francis Clark and Mrs. Catherine Goodman.
- Calvary EUB church — Mrs. Luella Lape, Mrs. Xylphia McCann and Mrs. Dorothy Hosler.
- Emmitt Chapel church — Dr. Wells Wilson.
- Cincinnati teachers — Alfred Gabriel, Mrs. Austin Dowden and Mrs. Elliott Barnhill.
- Plastic Corp. — Paul Graffis Jr.
- Child Conservation League — Henry Reid.
- Marathon station — Charles Gray and Robert Leist.
- Farm Bureau — Robert Smithers.
- Monday Club — Miss Anne Renick.
- Jr. Women's Club — Mrs. Martha Poling.
- Medical Auxiliary — Mrs. Ned Griner.
- Child Advancement Club — Mrs. Darl McAfee.
- Child Study Club — James Rice.
- Kiwanis Club — Dwight Steele.
- Rotary Club — John Robinson.
- Elks Club — Ralph Haines.
- Walnut street PTA — Walter Gilmore.
- Church of the Brethren — Rev. John C. Hurst.
- Unrelated — Donald Gilmore, Mrs. Lena Congrove, Leonard Campbell, Mrs. Walter Stout, Russell Spangler, Mrs. Catherine Martin, Mrs. Bertha Eitel and Mrs. Dorothy Hosler.
- U.S. Army — Elmer Malone Jr.

Watt street station had upset estimates.

An ordinance to amend the appropriation ordinance to include the sum of $300 from the water works operating fund to the incidental fund Leist listed a number of routine expenses that required the transfer to the incidental fund, used to cover petty cash, debt services and the like.

An ordinance to amend the appropriation ordinance to include the sum of $365 from the water works operating fund to the engineering fund in connection with costs of the recent river pipe project.

An ordinance to amend the appropriation ordinance to include the sum of $100 from the water works operating fund to the fund for new meters. Leist said 80 new meters had been purchased this year and the fund for that purpose had been overdrawn.

Harry W. Moore notified council by letter that he wished to resign as a citizen member of the police pension board because of a hearing disability. Council members, however, said they believed action in Moore's case would have to be taken by the pension board.

Councilman George Crites moved for the appointment of Durward Dowden as a member of the board of governors of Berger Hospital to fill a vacancy caused by resignation of James T. Shea. The appointment was approved.

Fair Board's Meeting Date Is Changed

Pickaway County Agricultural Society will hold its October meeting next Monday, changing from its customary meeting date of the first Monday of each month.

Henry Reid Jr., secretary to the fair board, announced the meeting will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the coliseum at the fairgrounds.

Approximately 40 letters have been mailed to school superintendents, civic groups, farm units and other organizations and individuals to invite all interested persons to the session.

The meeting will discuss a proposed change in the annual county fair week to September instead of August. Any switch back to a September fair program, tried in past years, would need approval by the state department of agriculture, Reid said.

IT IS also planned to discuss a proposal to have a "free gate" at next year's fair.

Reid said the fair board is anxious to learn the public's feelings on both suggestions and urged a full turnout for the meeting.

James L. Yost, elected as new head of the fair board this summer, will direct the session.

Reid said special attention will be given to the suggested change to September dates and the views of school and business representatives will be an important factor in any decision reached.

He pointed out a September fair would probably make it easier for schools and merchants to have better displays, since the event would come after classes were resumed and business vacation schedules were beyond their peak.

Special Sheep Sale Tuesday 'Successful'

Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association wrapped up a successful sheep and lamb sale Tuesday in the Cincinnati stockyards.

Tuesday's sale was the second in a special series of four sheep and lamb sales planned by the stockyards this fall and winter.

Forrest Brown, director of the auctions, said the special sales have been scheduled to relieve conditions during the regular weekly livestock sales on Wednesdays.

"We don't have the facilities for handling sheep along with our regular market," Brown said.

Tuesday's sale was very good from the seller's standpoint, with top prices going for the sheep and lambs.

NEXT SPECIAL sale for the local stockyards will be held Oct. 28.

A total of 274 head of sheep and lambs was sold in Tuesday's auctions. Prices offered were as follows:

Choice to prime, $26.75 to $27.35 per 100-lbs.; Medium to good lambs, $23.75 to $25.35 per 100-lbs.; Feeder lambs, $7.25 to $20.40 per 10-lbs.; 4-year-old bucks, $20 to $22 per head; slaughter ewes, $5.60 to $6.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father John W. Morrison, who passed away one year ago today Oct. 8th 1951.

The moon and stars are shining,
On a lone and silent grave,
Where lies the one we dearly loved,
And tried so hard to save.

No one knows the heartaches,
No one knows the heartaches,
Of the grief that's borne in silence,
For the one we loved so well.

He is gone but not forgotten,
Never shall the memory fade,
Dearly thoughts will always linger
Round the grave where he is laid.

To the beautiful garden he has gone,
To the land of perfect rest,
His work is done and the setting sun,
Has sealed his life's short quest.

He has left the earthly garden,
For a home beyond the sea,
Though he has gone he still lives on,
In our garden of memory.

Sadly missed by his widow,
Lillian Morrison and daughters,
Mrs. Violet Rhymet,
Mrs. Dorothy Drum.

16 Records Broken, 17 Tied During Playing Of '52 Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers broke 16 records and tied 17 others in the 1952 World Series. Four of the new marks were set by individuals, while 12 were team records.

Duke Snider of the Dodgers was the outstanding individual batting performer of the series, establishing new records in total bases and extra bases on long hits and equalling four others in runs batted in, homers, two homers in a game and long hits.

The Yankees, who won their fourth straight championship, were responsible for nine new team marks and two joint records with Brooklyn.

Records broken (based on seven-game series):

Individual—

Most total bases—Snider, Brooklyn, 24.

Most extra bases on long hits—Snider, (2-2b 4hr), 14.

Most chances accepted, catcher—Yogi Berra, New York, 67.

Most putouts, catcher—Berra, 59.

Team—

Lowest batting percentage of club winning series—New York, .216.

Most times at bat, one club, total 19 series—New York, 3,362.

Fewest one-base hits, one club—New York, 33.

Fewest two-base hits, both clubs—New York (5) vs Brooklyn (7), 12.

Cole Is Recalled To Aid Brownies

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Coach Paul Brown, getting his Cleveland gridders ready for Sunday's key game against the New York Giants, has rehired Emerson Cole and put Rex Bumgardner on waivers.

Bumgardner, a 193-pound left halfback, suffered a shoulder separation during the exhibition season and was benched the first two games. Cole, a 215-pounder who formerly played for the University of Toledo, had been put on waivers when Marion Motley returned to form early this season and took back the offensive fullback chores.

Fight Results

Tuesday Night

PORTLAND, Ore.—Freddie Be-shore, 197, Oakland, Calif., stopped Joe Kahut, 181½, Oregon, 8.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Diego Sosa, 133, Havana, outpointed Pat Iacobucci, 131½, Cincinnati, 10.

Bill Jackowski, newest National League umpire, is a basketball official during the off-season.

16 Records Broken, 17 Tied During Playing Of '52 Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 — (AP)—The New York Yankees and the Brooklyn Dodgers broke 16 records and tied 17 others in the 1952 World Series. Four of the new marks were set by individuals, while 12 were team records.

Duke Snider of the Dodgers was the outstanding individual batting performer of the series, establishing new records in total bases and extra bases on long hits and pulling four others in runs batted in, homers, two homers in a game and long hits.

The Yankees, who won their fourth straight championship, were responsible for nine new team marks and two joint records with Brooklyn.

Records broken (based on seven-game series):

Individual—
Most total bases—Brooklyn, 24.
Most extra bases on long hits—Snider, (2-2b 4-hr), 14.
Most chances accepted, catcher—Yogi Berra, New York, 67.
Most putouts, catcher—Berra, 59.
Team—
Lowest batting percentage of club winning series—New York, .216.

Most times at bat, one club, total 19 series—New York, 3,362.

Fewest one-base hits, one club—New York, 33.

Fewest two-base hits, both clubs—New York (5) vs Brooklyn (7), 12.

Cole Is Recalled To Aid Brownies

CLEVELAND, Oct. 8.—Coach Paul Brown, getting his Cleveland gridders ready for Sunday's key game against the New York Giants, has rehired Emerson Cole and put Rex Bumgardner on waivers. Bumgardner, a 193-pound left halfback, suffered a shoulder separation during the exhibition season and was benched the first two games. Cole, a 215-pounder who formerly played for the University of Toledo, had been put on waivers when Marion Motley returned to form early this season and took back the offensive fullback chores.

Fight Results

Tuesday Night
PORTLAND, Ore.—Freddie Beshore, 197, Oakland, Calif., stopped Joe Kahi, 181½, Oregon, 8.
MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Diego Sosa, 133, Havana, outpointed Pat Iacobucci, 131½, Cincinnati, 10.
Bill Jackowski, newest National League umpire, is a basketball official during the off-season.
